Swain School demolition begins

Site to be levelled and cleared before school year begins

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - The former home of WCTV, the former high school, the former home of the Wilmington Police Detective Bureau, the Swain School, will be demolished in time for the beginning of school. George Hooper, Superintendent of Public Buildings, appeared before the Board of Selectmen Monday night and offered up a timeline of work done to date, and the expectations for the final stages of demolition.

Following Town Meeting, during which residents voted to tear down the circa-1914 school after more than two hours of intense debate centering on the historic nature of the structure, Hooper has been busy putting the job out to bid through Central Register by June 14.

On June 24 a good turnout of contractors attended a pre-bid walkthrough of the facility. The town opened up the bids on July 9 and received six bidders. Jay-Mor Enterprises, Inc of Pelham, New Hampshire, was the lowest bidder.

A number of historic items were removed from the structure on July 20. Members of the Historical Commission sought to retain the frieze, preserving the 1914 establishment date. Other items were retained for preservation or future use and Hooper went through the building to see if anything could be recycled.

The demolition permit was issued on July 23 and on the week of July 27 the remaining items in the building were removed.

Hooper hand-delivered letters to abutters about the asbestos removal, which began on August 3. By August 13 a clean air sample indicated that the asbestos removal was successful and all the equipment was removed from the old school.

Hooper spot-checked the building Monday

Boards disagree over variance

BOA expected to vacate its decision at September 9 meeting

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - The Board of Appeals and the Planning Board recently found themselves with dissenting opinions regarding the property at 362 Middlesex Avenue.

The property, which is situated next to the North Wilmington Commuter Rail stop and across the street from Uptown Deli, includes a retail building housing a pizza shop, a real estate office, and a space that had recently been vacated by Dunkin' Donuts. At the rear of the property is a two-story building, which is the focus of the discrepancy between boards. The property is owned by long-time Wilmington businessman, and former Wilmington selectman, John Forrest.

Forrest requested of the BOA, and was granted, a variance that would allow for a single residence in the second floor of the building to the rear of the property. The building was originally permitted and built approximately three years ago as a commercial building with vehicle storage on the first floor and office space and general storage on the second.

The BOA acted on informa-

Krochmal continues

Tewksbury's Home Rule Petition hearing date changed - September 1, 10:00 a.m.

TEWKSBURY - A local pig farm will remain operating, but under conditions and oversight, as the Board of Health seeks to keep odors out of surrounding neighborhoods.

Last week's Tewksbury Board of Health meeting was, at times, volatile. With vocal supporters of Krochmal Farm wanting to be heard, the Board adjusted its agenda to allow for public participation. The Public Hearing for an Appeal of the Order of Prohibition, issued in December 2008, sought to make a determination with regards to site assignment. The Order of Prohibition was issued against Krochmal Farm for noisome trade - in particular, noisome odors.

The Order of Prohibition states that, "(I)t has been determined that the piggery operation performed by Krochmal Farms in the Town of Tewksbury may be harmful to the inhabitants of the Town, dangerous to the public health, and/or attended by noisome and injurious odors..."

The order also indicated that

Local restaurateurs on Food Network

WILMINGTON - Peter and Robert DePesa, owners of Focaccia's Restaurant in Wilmington, will be appearing on the Food Network this Friday night, August 21, in "Chefs vs. City."

According to Food Network, "In each episode of Chefs vs. City, Food Network chefs Aaron Sánchez and Chris Cosentino challenge two local foodies in an action-packed food adventure to locate that city's biggest, boldest, most unexpected food places. From wine stomping in Malibu, to eating the spiciest curry in all of NYC, to braving the coldest room in Las Vegas, Chefs vs. City will test the wits, guts, and skills of both teams as they race to the finish line.

Armed robbery at Tewksbury ATM

Police searching for suspect

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

TEWKSBURY - A highly visible ATM on busy Main Street in rush hour traffic is normally a good safe place to make a bank withdrawal, but three area teens were robbed in broad daylight by an armed suspect last Friday afternoon.

On Friday, August 14, 2009, at approximately 5:15 p.m., three teen boys had entered the Bank of America ATM kiosk located at 1899 Main Street, made a cash withdrawal, and opened the door to let a man into the bank.

According to police, the three victims reported that while inside, the suspect brandished a black handgun that he had in his waistband. He demanded the cash the boys had just withdrawn and told them to withdraw more cash.

After taking the money, the suspect fled to a waiting vehicle, possibly a light blue pickup truck, parked nearby.

The victims described the suspect as a white male, 18 to 25 years old, and approximately 5'6" to 5'8" tall with a thin build. The suspect was wearing a Red Sox baseball cap backwards, a dark colored tee-shirt with a gray Nike logo in the center, white shorts with a black stripe (possibly a Nike logo) and Nike sneakers.

A surveillance camera provided photos of the perpetrator. Residents are encouraged to see an enhanced version of the photos on the Tewksbury Police Department website.

Members of the Tewksbury Criminal Bureau are seeking an identification of the suspect. Please contact Detective Brian O'Neill (978-851-7373, Extension #254) and/or Detective Sergeant Tom Casey (978-851-7373, Extension #225) with any pertinent information.

Tewksbury Police are looking for this man, and they're hoping you can help. He is wanted in connection with an armed robbery of three ATM patrons.

fire. Today the area is an ecosystem that is the central base of the company's environmental program.

"When I came here 10 years ago, I was immediately struck by the vibrant life in the wetlands and pond," said Brian Primeau, Manager of Environmental, Health and Safety for Textron Defense Systems. "The presence of such a rich ecosystem on the property is a great tool we use in teaching our employees the importance of not just complying with regulations on environmental protection, but being pro-active in reducing our environmental impact whenever possible."

To create awareness within the community, Textron Defense Systems management focused on making a community outreach program. In the past two years, as part of the community outreach program, Textron Defense Systems has worked with the Woburn Street School by visiting the classrooms to promote Earth Day.

One classroom the Textron employees visited was Mrs. Lynne Gordon's second grade classroom, at the Woburn Street School, where the Textron employees talked to the students about the importance of going green.

"It is our hope that by contributing to the children's knowledge of environmental awareness, they will become more involved in their communities and ask their family and friends to contribute as well," said Textron Defense Systems Senior Vice President and General Manager Mark Catizone. "Going 'green' is not only something that we promote as a corporate citizen in our area, but a value we share within our Textron community."

When Textron visited the students, they gave each student an Earth Care Calendar and a coloring activity book. To continue the students' awareness of improving the community throughout the year, Textron Defense Systems provided each classroom in the school with recycling bins to remind the students about the importance of recycling products such as glass, plastic and paper.

Another way the employees of Textron got involved within the community is by maintaining the Textron Ball Field in Wilmington, located on Lowell Street diagonally across from Michael's Place Restaurant. The field is used to host soccer games as well as Little League baseball games.

Besides improving and making the community aware of ways to improve the environment, Textron has worked to make their own company environmentally aware. Becoming the ISO 14001 Environmental Management Standard in 2001, Textron Defense System became the international standard for improving the environment.

Around that time, Textron Defense System began working with groups such as the Toxic Use Reduction Program and was able to minimize the amount of chemicals by using less toxic cleaners. Also, they realized they were able to replace cleaners with water-based solutions.

Recently, Textron Defense Systems has been focusing on reducing the amount of lead used in electronic soldering. The program has been able to limit the amount of lead being used in the wave solder machine from 600 lbs of lead to just 10 lbs. Since lead is still being used to build electronics for the military, the Textron Defense Systems are continually working on making the process lead free while still making the equipment just as reliable as before.

To track their impact, Textron Defense Systems created an environmental index in 2007 based on a process used at the Brookhaven National Laboratory. After creating the index, with a base score of 100, the company established a goal of annually diminishing the impact of the facility on the environment.

Consisting of ten elements, the index measures the facility's pollution prevention ideas, waste generation, electrical, water, consumption, regulatory compliance in addition to the company's recycling efforts. "The index identified recycling as one area in particular in which we felt we could make a significant improvement," said Primeau. "Enhanced communications to our employees and coordinated efforts with our vendors helped significantly increase the amount of material we recycle. In the first seven months of this year we recycled 16.8 tons of paper and cardboard, a 30 percent increase over the same period the previous year, and nearly 55 tons of scrap metal and electronics."

Recycling 39.32 tons of batteries, paper, cardboard, plastic, glass and aluminum in 2008, Textron Defense Systems has made great improvement within their own company by recovering and recycling large amounts of materials instead of allowing the materials to become relegated to the local landfill.

The newest environmental project at Textron Defense Systems revolves around limiting the amount of greenhouse gas, especially the carbon emissions, that the company is producing. "Massachusetts is a leader in greenhouse gas and carbon reduction measures with the passage last year of the Global Warming Solutions Act," said Primeau. "Although the Textron facility in Wilmington has very low carbon emissions compared to a power plant or heavy industry, management felt that understanding our 'carbon footprint' and looking for reduction opportunities should be the next step for our program."

Also, Textron Defense Systems teamed up with the Massachusetts Governor's Clean Energy Challenge, which is a three-year program to track and report carbon emissions. Over the next few years, with the help from the Massachusetts Governor's Clean Energy Challenge, Textron Defense Systems will be looking to limit their carbon emissions by at least 10 percent by June 2012.

Land for sale

Site of proposed mall is up for sale

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

TEWKSBURY - The future is once again in question for the land in South Tewksbury that was once slated to become the site of a mega mall.

CB Richard Ellis Real Estate listed the former Mills Mall property (for an undisclosed amount of money) as a 128-acre development "poised to capitalize on proceeds from the federal stimulus package and the support of the 2008 Massachusetts Life Sciences Investment Bill." The listing touts the site's location as one which will have full access through the Interstate 93 Tri-Town Interchange, a "major transportation and economic development initiative connecting the communities of Tewksbury, Wilmington and Andover."

Community Development Director Steve Sadwick said that, to his knowledge, the Town had not been notified that the land was for sale. He also indicated that Simon (who purchased Mills) sends representatives, either local people or by conference calls, to most of the I-93 working group meetings and had not noticed any change in their interest in the interchange project.

Currently, Tewksbury, Andover and Wilmington have been put on notice to proceed with the environmental permitting for the Interchange project. This entails both the Massachusetts Environmental Protection Act and the National Environmental Protection Act. Sadwick described it as a "long process" to go through and said they are doing it right now.

Under a program titled ANRAD (Abbreviated Notices of Resource Area Delineation) wetland identification will take place in filings before the Tewksbury, Andover, and Wilmington conservation commissions within the next month.

Todd Johnson, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, announced a series of upcoming meetings related to the type of project that will go in. Stakeholders will have input, and open listening sessions are also scheduled for October 6, 7 and 8. Open discussions on the "vision" of the project will take place on October 22 and November 19. Johnson said, "This is the opportunity to participate," and told residents that if they have concerns or want to have any say then they need to speak up during this process.

At a meeting last Thursday, Mass Highway indicated that their most recent estimate of the timeframe for the Interchange project is for completion by 2016 for the $150 million construction project.

Meanwhile, the Lowell Sun recently reported that retail developer Topsfield Associates Inc. recently attempted to seize some of the former Mills mall property as payment for an alleged brokerage commission of $400,000 they say they are owed by Mills Corporation and Simon Property Group. Although Middlesex Superior Court Judge Thomas Billings denied the real estate attachment on August 5, a civil lawsuit is still in progress.

A manatee's best friend

Brandon Fitzpatrick holds his 5th annual Save the Manatees Fund Raiser!

TEWKSBURY - 12-year-old Brandon Fitzpatrick of Tewksbury has had a deep interest in the plight of the Manatees ever since he visited the Manatee Center in Port Saint Lucie Florida at the age of 6. He learned that these "gentle giants," with no natural predators, are being killed in large numbers every year mostly due to human activity. In 2008 a total of 337 manatees died with 90 being killed by boats alone. Entanglement in netting, red tide, loss of habitat, cold stress, and being trapped in water locks accounted for most of the other deaths.

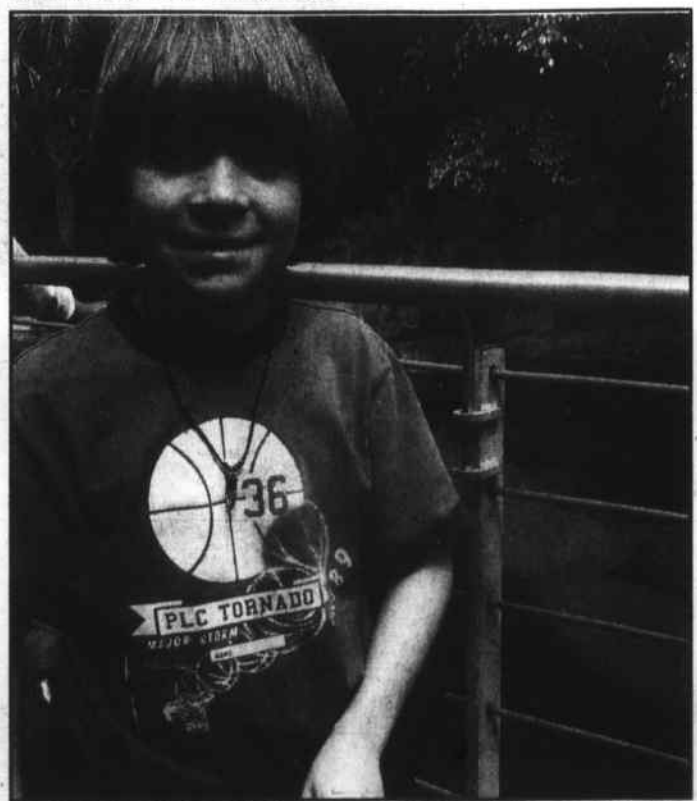

The Save the Manatee Club fights to protect the manatees through education and constant contact with the government to convince them to change laws to further protect the manatees. Recently they have helped to prevent state park budget cuts that would have resulted in park closures and less staff to manage state-owned land; get legislation passed for sea grass protection; and obtain funding for Florida's premier land-buying program, Florida

Forever. Most importantly they successfully stopped the downgrading of the manatees status from Endangered to Threatened. Developers had been attempting to get this downgrade so they could develop areas that the manatees now depend upon for their ever-decreasing habitat. Brandon had raised over $1,000 in the past four years for the Save the Manatee Club and tries each year to raise more than the last. This year he will be holding his fundraiser this Friday, August 21, and Saturday, August 22, from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. each day.

Education is a big part of this fundraiser and Brandon will enlighten everyone as to the manatee's plight. He has a large display that everyone will find interesting. He and his friend Troy Burditt, will be selling Lemonade, Ice Tea and his own concoction - Manatee Lemon Tea. There will be homemade baked goods as well. This year there will be two raffle items: a signed book "A Manatee Christmas" by Tim Thomas and a gorgeous beach towel that depicts two manatees. So please stop by the fundraiser at 257 Mitchell G. Drive in Tewksbury. Donations also can be made by mail sent to the same address and made out to Save the Manatee Club. Call 978-640-9460 for more information. Brandon is entering the 7th grade at Innovation Academy Charter School in Tyngsboro MA.

STOCKS DOWN? GIVE 'EM AWAY

When stock values are down, sometimes as much as 70 percent or more, it's hard to find a bright side. But there is one: for companies that show promise of coming back some day, it may be advantageous to give them away to family members and with prices down, you can give away much more without incurring gift taxes.

Say Grandpa has been holding a stock that's fallen deeply, and he doesn't think it will come back in his lifetime. Give it to a grandchild with a long future. Grandpa can give away $13,000 worth of anything ($26,000 if Grandma agrees) to as many recipients as he wishes. If the stock is down 50 percent, that means he can give away twice as many shares.

The basis goes with the gift. If the stock comes back some day and the donee sells it, he or she is responsible for taxes on the gain from the original price. If there's a loss when the stock is sold, the donee gets to apply it to any gains or $3,000 of income.

Annual Town Clean-Up Day

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington Conservation Commission invites residents of all ages to set a few hours aside and participate in the Annual Town Clean-Up Day on Saturday, September 12, 2009 from 8:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. The rain date is Saturday, September 19. The Conservation Commission is seeking volunteers to help beautify Wilmington's parks and streams by removing man-made debris. Meet at the Whitefield School, 342 Middlesex Avenue at 8:00 a.m. Wilmington Conservation Commission will provide work gloves on a first come, first serve basis and trash bags. Please bring hip boots, if you have them. Help us beforehand by letting us know of any Town-owned parcels and wetland areas that need to be cleaned by calling (978)-658-8238 or e-mail plan-cons@twon.wilmington.ma.us

For more information, please contact the Planning & Conservation Department at (978)-658-8238.

Annual Justin O'Neil Walk/Run

WILMINGTON - The family and friends of Justin invite you to participate in the annual Walk/Run to benefit the Justin Andrew O'Neil Memorial Scholarship Fund to take place at the Wilmington Town Common on Sunday, September 13. A day of family fun is planned with a three-mile walk/run followed by food, music, moon walk, slush, popcorn, raffle table, etc. This event helps to celebrate and honor Justin's life and will enable the O'Neil family to present this scholarship to Wilmington seniors graduating from high school for many years to come. Over the past few years, with the community's continued support, the family has been able to award several scholarships to deserving students in Justin's memory. If you wish to participate in this fundraiser you may register the day of the event, starting at noon, with the walk/run beginning at 12:30 p.m. If you wish pledge, sheets are available at several locations in town including Wilmington Town Hall.

How to submit news items...

The Town Crier goes to press on Wednesday afternoon and has a deadline for submissions as of noon on Mondays

Preferred Submission Method:

E-Mail to sbjork@yourtowncrier.com

E-Mail guidelines:

- News releases, news tips or information, letters to the editor - send either as copy in the original email or as an attached TEXT or Word document.
- Photos/images - send as an attached JPEG at a minimum of 200 resolution. Please do not embed the image within a Word document.

Other submission methods:

- Deliver to the Town Crier offices at 1 Arrow Drive in Woburn, MA during business hours, 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.
- Submissions may also be mailed to - Town Crier, 1 Arrow Drive, Woburn, MA 01801

During the year, we receive telephone calls from people asking if we can videotape a sports event or an event at school. Callers refer to something they watched on a WCTV channel. We recently received a call from a person representing the Boys Ice Hockey Team and another inquiry about Girls Hockey games. We explain the same thing to everyone - our volunteers shot that.

The games shown on WCTV channels are videotaped and produced by our volunteer members. The volunteers joined WCTV, spent time being trained on our professional video cameras and learned how to shoot and edit sports video. People who signed out our equipment and taped these games submitted them for cablecasting. Volunteers such as Rick Aronofsky, Paul Curtin and Dave McMahon have volunteered to cover sports each season such as the Boys Basketball games.

If you have a sporting or school event that you would like to see on our local channels, the best way to ensure this programming is to become a WCTV member and consider videotaping the games! Just ask our continuing line of school band parents, such as Bob Ham or Mark Levine, who are current WCTV members and spend time videotaping and editing school concerts, about their experiences.

If you don't have your own camera, don't worry! WCTV has professional camcorders that are ideal for this purpose! WCTV membership offers you access to professional video cameras and editing equipment that you can use to make your child and others look like stars on local television.

If you don't know how to use a camera, we can help with that too! We offer training at all levels of experience and we can teach you not only how to videotape events, but also what to do with your footage to produce your own unique program.

If you're not sure you have

Around the Dial with WCTV

You Shoot, They Score!

the time in your own schedule, consider asking your booster club to fill out an organizational membership. This membership offers up to four members access to WCTV's training, facilities and equipment. This way, you have several members who can take turns covering games or performances.

For just $15 a year for individuals or $50 for organizations, you can produce your own program! Start the process by visiting our studio at 10 Waltham St. and signing up. We'll show you what it takes to "take to the field" and produce what can truly be called a "field production!"

When you shoot, your kids score, and your community can watch the results right here on your local WCTV channels.

"Bon Appétit for Your Library" also includes "Dining for Dollar" fundraising events at popular local restaurants and "Delicious Drawings" monthly gift basket raffles.

"Bon Appétit for Your Library" is organized by the Friends of the Wilmington Memorial Library, a well-respected local non-profit organization dedicated to raising funds and awareness for Wilmington's public library.

The Friends of the Wilmington Memorial Library has a long tradition of supporting library children's programming. Last year, the Friends was the largest sponsor of library children's programs, sponsoring 25 events for children in 2008, including concerts, plays, storytelling, magic shows, and puppet shows. The Friends provided prizes and/or refreshments at more than 50 additional library children's programs last year, including book discussions and writing programs. Attendance at 2008 Friends-sponsored library children's programs exceeded 1,600.

Burbank YMCA in Reading

Fall I session and upcoming events

READING, MA - Summer is almost over so close out the summer with a bang at the Burbank YMCA in Reading.

Join The Burbank YMCA in Reading for Movie Night on Friday, August 21st at 6:30pm. Enjoy High School Musical 3 on the YMCA big screen. On Sunday, August 30th come to the YMCA for some back to school shopping. The Burbank YMCA will hold a Clothing Swap from 2:00 p.m. - 4:00pm. All clothing for the swap must be dropped off by Friday, Aug. 28th at 8:00pm. Then let the fun continue this fall with great programs at the Burbank YMCA. The Fall I Session starts Sunday, Sept. 13th and registration began Monday, Aug. 17th.

While the kids head back to school take some time for yourself. Keep the pounds off with Ultimate Boot Camp and challenge yourself with drills and outdoor exercises. Tap into that competitive spirit with the Burbank YMCA Four-On-Four Basketball League. Games will be held on Thursday and Sunday evenings beginning at 6:00pm.

Keep the children busy with Superhero Story and a Craft for children between the ages of two to four, Preschool Track & Field for four- and five-year-olds, Flag Football for six through nine year olds or Youth and Teen Bootcamp for people ages eight through eighteen years old.

One-week swim lessons will also be offered from Tuesday, Sept. 8 to Friday, Sept. 11. This is a great way to prepare for swimming lessons in the Fall I session. To sign up for one of the upcoming events, call (781)- 944-9622. Events are free to YMCA family members, $5 per family for youth and preschool members and $10 per family for non-members. For more information about the Fall I Session classes offered at the Burbank YMCA visit www.ymcaboston.org/burbank to view the Fall I Session Brochure.

Friends of the Wilmington Memorial Library

Delicious Drawings: Lunch-Themed Gift Basket Raffle

WILMINGTON - During the month of August, the Friends of the Wilmington Memorial Library is raffling off a lunch-themed gift basket valued at $175 or more. Raffle tickets are available at the library's Circulation Desk for $2 each or 3 for $5.

The gift basket includes donated prizes from local restaurants, including gift certificates from the

Cheesecake Factory, Fresh City, Legal Sea Foods, Rainforest Cafe, and Uno Chicago Grill. The gift basket also includes a bottle of white wine, which was donated by Elia's Country Store, wine glasses, tea, teacup, lemonade mix, lemonade pitcher, lunch plate and glasses set, and napkins. The gift basket is topped off with several lunch-related cookbooks donated by the Book Store Next Door.

This fundraiser is a part of "Bon Appétit for Your Library," a series of food-themed fundraisers held this summer to benefit the Wilmington Memorial Library's children's programming. "Bon Appétit for Your Library" includes "Delicious Drawings" fundraisers with a breakfast-themed gift basket raffle in July, a lunch-themed gift basket raffle in August, and a dinner-themed gift basket raffle in September.

"Bon Appétit for Your Library" is organized by the Friends of the Wilmington Memorial Library, a well-respected local non-profit organization dedicated to raising funds and awareness for Wilmington's public library.

Your Two Cents...

I think they should build a nice town hall on the property of the old Swain school. After all, they tore down the Walker school and built a humongous Public Safety Building.

A parking lot for the high school kids!! Give me a break.

Charlene Dellascio of Competitive Edge in Tewksbury joins Season 3 of "Dancing with the Realtors"®

TEWKSBURY - Charlene Dellascio, of Competitive Edge in Tewksbury, will be participating in Season 3 of Dancing with the Realtors®. Charlene is a new dancer for 2009. Charlene has been a full time real estate professional for 19 years. When the opportunity came along to participate in Dancing with the Realtors® for Habitat for Humanity she looked forward to participating in Season 3. Charlene says "I like to have fun as well as dance. I feel like I'm exercising and dancing is good for the body, heart, mind and soul. I may even lose a few pounds."

Charlene is looking forward to participating Oct. 8 and hopes to see you at the event. This organization along with the dynamic professional Realtors® Dancing with the Realtors® was created by Linda Covino; and Season 1 took place in the spring of 2007. The show is based on the ABC hit Dancing with the Stars.

In order to dance in the show, dancers must commit to ten ballroom lessons at Studio 665 in Woburn, where they are currently training. This year, newcomers will be dancing the foxtrot and swing, while returning dancers will be learning the salsa and waltz. Billy Costa of TV Diner will be the Celebrity Host, and Susan Wornick of WCVB TV Channel 5, will be the Celebrity Judge. The show will take place at the Burlington Marriott on Oct. 8, 2009. All participants will also have the opportunity to compete in the state finals at the Eastern United States Dancesport Championship Jan. 22 to the Jan. 24 2010 at the Renaissance Boston Waterfront Hotel. The Realtor event will take place in the afternoon of Jan. 23.

Charlene welcomes your support. If you are interested in attending Dancing with the Realtors® Season 3, sponsoring the event, or donating to Habitat for Humanity through the show, you can contact her at charlene@compedegrees.com

For more information and tickets contact Linda Covino at Linda@lindacovino.com.

Missouri S&T awards degrees at annual commencements

ROLLA, MO - Approximately 409 candidates received degrees from Missouri University of Science and Technology, formerly the University of Missouri-Rolla, during commencement ceremonies Saturday, Dec. 20, 2008 in the Gale Bullman Multi-Purpose Building on campus.

The university awards bachelor of science, bachelor of arts, master of science and doctor of philosophy (Ph.D.) degrees.

Missouri S&T has traditionally recognized graduates earning a bachelor's degree with honors by placing the designation "summa cum laude," "magna cum laude" or "cum laude" on their diplomas. The highest honor, summa cum laude, is awarded to students who have earned a cumulative grade point (GPA) of 3.8 or above on a 4.0 scale for all courses counting toward the degree. Magna cum laude is the designation for a GPA of 3.5 to 3.79, and cum laude indicates a GPA of 3.2 to 3.49.

Missouri S&T is one of four campuses in the University of Missouri System and one of the nation's top technological research universities.

For more information, visit www.mst.edu or contact the admissions office at 800-522-0938.

December 2008 graduates include:

Kimberly Ann Strazzere, of Wilmington with a BS in Ceramic Engineering CUM Laude. She is the daughter of George and Karen Strazzere.

Jason James Balinski of Wilmington with a BS in Electrical Engineering. He is the son of Joyce A. Burchsted.

May 2009 graduates include:

Kristen Anne Donovan of Wilmington with a BS in ID ENG. She is the daughter of Jay and Susan Donovan.

Benvenuto excels at Worcester State College

TEWKSBURY - Annalecia Benvenuto, daughter of Vincent and Kathleen Benvenuto of Tewksbury, MA, was named to the Dean's List at Worcester State College for the Spring 2009 semester. Annalecia's GPA for the semester was a 3.75. She was also inducted into the Tau Rho Chapter of Sigma Theta Tau International Nursing Honor Society on April 26, 2009. Membership is by invitation, extended to baccalaureate and graduate nursing students who demonstrate excellence in scholarship and to nursing leaders exhibiting exceptional achievements in nursing. Sigma Theta Tau International strives to support the learning, knowledge and professional development of nurses committed to making a difference in health worldwide. In addition, Annalecia was inducted into the National Honor Society her freshmen year.

Bamberg named to Dean's list

LARAMIE, WY - The University of Wyoming has named Danielle Bamberg to the 2009 spring semester academic Dean's and sophomore Honor Roll.

Danielle has been accepted into the University of Wyoming Nursing School.

The honor roll consists of regularly enrolled undergraduates above freshman standing who earn a 3.4 or better grade point average, and freshmen who have earned a 3.25 or better grade point average.

To be eligible, students must have been enrolled for a minimum of 12 credit hours taken for letter grades.

Located in Laramie, the University of Wyoming is the state's only four-year higher education institution, offering more than 180 programs of study. UW professors have as their primary responsibility the education of undergraduate students, teaching more than 90 percent of all credit hours.

Walk of Hope for ALS

WAKEFIELD - On Saturday, September 12, 2009, the eighth annual Walk of Hope, 3.5-mile walk around Lake Quannapowitt, will be held in Wakefield, Massachusetts. The walk will take place rain or shine. Registration begins at 9:00 a.m. on the Wakefield Common and the start of the walk will begin at 11:00 a.m. Walkers or teams can call and register at (781)-245-7070, or on the website at www.theangelfund.org. For more information about sponsorship opportunities, they can also be obtained on the website, www.theangelfund.org, or by calling (781)-245-7070.

OBITUARY

Ross F. Spinelli

Avid sports fan; youth sports coach

WILMINGTON - Ross F. Spinelli, age 69, of Wilmington, died August 11, 2009 at the Boston Medical Center after a brief illness.

Ross was born in Punxsutawney, PA on July 9, 1940, and attended high school there. Ross excelled at baseball, the sport he loved most. He played baseball and basketball all four years in high school and was coached by the late Chuck Daly.

Ross joined the US Navy in 1959, served until 1965, and was a decorated veteran of the Vietnam War. Ross met his wife, Joanne, while stationed in Boston in 1961. The couple resided in Everett and Malden prior to settling in their new home in Wilmington in 1969. Ross coached Wilmington Little League baseball and basketball teams and drove the senior's van for a short time.

Ross enjoyed holidays, watching sports, reading, working, being outdoors and spending time with his family, especially his grandchildren. He loved baseball and football, was an avid Pirates and Steelers fan and became an adopted New England sports fan. He enjoyed watching his grandsons play baseball. Ross cherished people, maintaining friendships with former co-workers and with people around the world. Ross was a devoted family man, a loving husband, father, grandfather, brother and friend.

Ross was the beloved husband of Joanne (Enos) Spinelli, devoted father of Ross F. Spinelli, Jr. & his wife Maria and Mark A. Spinelli & his wife Jennifer all of New Hampshire, cherished grandfather of Anthony, Nicolas, Domenic, Gianna, and Novena, dear son of the late Frank & Beulah (Salsgiver) Spinelli, loving brother of John Spinelli of Ohio and Rose Zarecky of Virginia.

Family & friends gathered at the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62) Wilmington, on Monday, August 17th at 9:00 a.m. followed by a Funeral Mass in St. Dorothy's Church, Main St., Wilmington, at 10:00 a.m. Interment took place in Wildwood Cemetery, Wilmington.

Donations in Ross's name may be made to Local Heroes, Inc., P.O. Box 536, Wilmington, MA 01887.

State Police investigate fatal crash in Wilmington

WILMINGTON - Thursday, August 13, 2009, at approximately 10:00 a.m., Troopers assigned to the State Police Barracks in Andover responded to a pedestrian crash on Route 93 northbound, south of exit 39 (Concord Street) in Wilmington, that resulted in one fatality.

Preliminary investigation by Trooper Michael Spencer indicates 49-year-old Muhammed Hashim of Burlington was operating a 2003 Mazda Minivan on Route 93 North in Wilmington when he parked in the breakdown lane and exited his vehicle. After exiting the Mazda, Hashim entered into the traveled portion of the roadway and was struck in the right-middle travel lane by a 2003 Tractor Trailer operated by 35-year-old Leonardo Fajardo of Everett. Hashim was transported by ambulance to Lahey Clinic in Burlington where he was later pronounced deceased. Fajardo was transported by ambulance to Winchester Hospital with minor injuries.

This crash remains under investigation with the assistance of the State Police Collision Analysis and Reconstruction Section and the State Police Crime Scene Services Section. The Wilmington Fire Department and MassHighway assisted Troopers at the scene.

Due to the crash investigation and vehicle removal, the two right northbound travel lanes were closed for approximately two hours.

The Book Store Next Door Sizzling Summer

WILMINGTON - Finally hot hot hot, but there is air condition? It is at the Friends' of the Library's used Book Store Next Door to the Wilmington Library at 183 Middlesex Ave. Summer hours are Saturdays from 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m., Sundays from 12:00 p.m. - 3:00 p.m. and Wednesdays from 4:00 p.m. - 7:00 p.m. Drop by to cool off and come away with some of the best book deals in New England. Last minute crunch time for summer reading and finding those books on the reading list. Flowers are blooming fast and furiously. Learn how to preserve them all year and get seeds for next. If vacation is still ahead come in for some serious reading, or get some ideas for gallivanting around New England for day trips. Whatever your interests, you are certain to find something in our well-organized fiction, children's and non-fiction rooms. Many thanks for your continued support. Please contact Leslie Dietrich, 978.657.6536 or lesd4@verizon.net for questions or volunteer opportunities.

A PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN

(never known to fail)

O Most beautiful Flower of Mount Carmel, Fruitful Vine, Splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this my request. O Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my Mother.

O Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart, to succor me in this request; there are none that can withstand your power.

O, show me herein you are my Mother. O Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee. (3 times)

Sweet Mother, I place this request in your hands. (3 times)

Say for 3 consecutive days and publish. God Bless

ST. JUDE'S NOVENA

May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and praised throughout the world now and forever, Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude, worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, help the hopeless, pray for us.

Say this prayer nine times a day, by the 8th day your prayer will be answered. It has never been known to fail. Publication must be promised. My prayers have been answered.

Tracy Malloy is Winchester Savings Bank Employee of the Quarter

Winchester Savings Bank recently announced that Tracy Malloy was selected as Employee of the Quarter for the second quarter of 2009. Each quarter, Winchester Savings Bank recognizes an employee who has demonstrated dedication to their customers and a high standard of excellence in their job.

"I am truly honored to receive this recognition by the WSB team, and to have been selected for such an award," remarked Tracy. Ms. Malloy is a resident of Wilmington and has worked for Winchester Savings Bank since September 2008.

Peter J. Segerstrom, President and CEO of Winchester Savings Bank, commented, "I offer my sincere congratulations to Tracy for being selected Employee of the Quarter. She is very deserving of this award."

Tewksbury Anniversary committee sponsors a 'Picnic in the Park'

TEWKSBURY - On Aug. 16, 2009 - The Friends, Staff and Trustees of the Tewksbury Public Library cordially invite all town residents to join them on Friday, Aug. 21 between the hours of Noon and 2:00 p.m. for a Fun Family Picnic on the library grounds to celebrate Tewksbury's 275th birthday.

All you need to bring is your picnic lunch and a blanket to sit on, while the library provides the fun! Thanks to the generosity of the Friends of the Tewksbury Library guests that day will enjoy life and drum music by David Vose, balloon animals and face painting by Violet the Clown and colonial games with volunteers from the historical society.

This fun family event is free and open to the public, so please make plans to join us that afternoon. The Tewksbury Public Library is located at the corner of Chandler and Main Street.

Zachary Malvone graduates from Lexington Christian Academy

WILMINGTON - Zachary Malvone, son of Mr. & Mrs. Anthony Malvone of Wilmington, MA, graduated from Lexington Christian Academy with the Class of 2009.

Zachary contributed to LCA athletics throughout his high school career, specifically as Tri-Captain for Boys Varsity Lacrosse. He was also a key member of the Boys Varsity Soccer Team, which won the 2008 Eastern Independent League Championship.

He will attend Gordon College this fall.

Sean Sleeper graduated from Infantryman Training

Army Pvt. Sean C. Sleeper has graduated from the Infantryman One Station Unit Training at Fort Benning, Columbus, Ga. The training consists of Basic Infantry Training and Advanced Individual Training.

During the nine weeks of basic combat training, the soldier received training in drill and ceremonies, weapons employment, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, physical fitness, first aid skills, and Army history, core values and traditions. Additional training included development of basic combat skills and battlefield operations and tactics, and experienced use of various weapons and weapons defenses available to the infantry crewman. The Advanced Individual Training course is designed to train infantry soldiers to perform reconnaissance operations; employ, fire and recover anti-personnel and anti-tank mines; locate and neutralize land mines and operate target and sight equipment; operate and maintain communications equipment and radio networks; construct field firing aids for infantry weapons; and perform infantry combat exercises and dismounted battle drills, which includes survival procedures in a nuclear, biological or chemical contaminated area.

He is the son of Sue Sleeper of Beckley St., Barre, Vt., and the grandson of Mary Labossiere of Adelman Road, Wilmington, Mass.

Sleeper is a 2006 graduate of Spaulding High School, Barre.

Moran joins season three of "Dancing with the Realtors"

Teresa Moran, Keller Williams Realty, Beverly will be participating in Season 3 of Dancing with the Realtors*. Teresa is a new dancer this for 2009. Teresa and her husband have lived in Reading with their two sons for the past 21 years. When she was young Teresa has loved to dance with friends. As an adult, she took a few lessons in swing and had a great time. No wonder her favorite show is Dancing with the Stars. Teresa says she chose to participate in "Dancing with the Realtors*" because Habitat for Humanity is such a great cause and she is proud to help contribute to it. Teresa is looking forward to participating Oct. 8 and hopes to see you there.

This organization along with the dynamic professional Realtors* Dancing with the Realtors* was created by Linda Covino. The show is based on the ABC hit Dancing with the Stars and Season 1 took place in the spring of 2007.

In order to dance in the show, dancers must commit to ten ballroom lessons at Studio 665 in Woburn, where they are currently training. This year, newcomers will be dancing the foxtrot and swing, while returning dancers will be learning the salsa and waltz. Billy Costa of TV Diner will be the Celebrity Host and Susan Wornick, of WCVB TV Channel 5, will be the Celebrity Judge. The show will take place at the Burlington Marriott on Oct. 8, 2009. All participants will also have the opportunity to compete in the state finals at the Eastern United States Dancesport Championship Jan. 22 to the 24 at Renaissance Boston Waterfront Hotel. The Realtor event will take place in the afternoon of Jan. 23.

Teresa welcomes your support. If you are interested in attending Dancing with the Realtors* Season 3, sponsoring the event, or donating to Habitat for Humanity through the show, you can contact Teresa at tmo-ran1@comcast.net

For more information and tickets or to support or sponsor Teresa contact Linda Covino at Linda@lindacovino.com.

Local residents needed to drive cancer patients to and from treatment

The American Cancer Society is in great need of Road to Recovery volunteers to drive local cancer patients to and from their chemotherapy and/or radiation treatments. An integral part of treating cancer successfully is making sure cancer patients receive their treatments, but many find making transportation arrangements is a challenge. The American Cancer Society provided more than 19,000 rides to cancer patients in New England last year, but needs new volunteer drivers to keep up with the demand for transportation.

Make a difference in the fight against cancer by becoming a volunteer driver for the American Cancer Society's Road to Recovery. Drivers use their own vehicle to drive patients to and from their treatments. The schedule for volunteers is flexible, treatment appointments take place weekdays, primarily during business hours. If you or someone you know is interested in becoming a volunteer driver for Road to Recovery, please contact your American Cancer Society at 1-800-227-2345 or visit www.cancer.org.

CTI Senior Corps volunteer programs begin osteoporosis prevention program

Lowell - Community Teamwork Inc.'s (CTI) Senior Corps RSVP program, a volunteer program for people 55 and older, will soon be bringing the "Bone Builders" curriculum to the Greater Lowell area. Jane Benfey, Senior Corps Director, announced that CTI has received a grant from Tufts Health Plan Foundation to offer this nationally recognized volunteer-led program, beginning this autumn, and is seeking volunteer group leaders. Joan Aseltine, CTI RSVP Bone Builders Coordinator, notes that, "Falls among seniors are often the cause of serious long-term injuries. With the increasing number of falls among older adults in our area, this program is badly needed."

An orientation for volunteer group leaders will be held on Tuesday, August 18 from 9:00 am to 10:30 am at the CTI Senior Corps office, 169 Merrimack Street, 3rd Floor, Lowell. An all day training will take place on Tuesday, September 15 from 9 to 5 at the Lowell Senior Center.

Volunteer group leaders must be 55 or older. They work in pairs, with up to 15 seniors, using an established curriculum. Training and supervision are provided, and volunteers are asked to commit to three to four hours per week for a minimum of three to six months. According to Ms. Benfey, "Bone Builders provides seniors with twice-weekly group sessions that focus on exercises to improve balance and increase the strength of both bones and muscles. Because it is run by volunteers at community sites, we can offer it to participants for free. If you are 55 and older and would like to be a volunteer leader for this program, please contact Joan Aseltine at 978-654-5080 ext. 14 or jaseltine@comteam.org.

Program participants must be 60 or older. Classes and supplies are free, and several sites are being planned to help make the sessions more accessible. If you are interested in joining a group as a participant, please call Joan Aseltine for more information.

Job Searching in a Down Economy

Job Searching in a Down Economy

If you are a recent college graduate looking for some tips on job hunting in this economy, Christine Bolzan from Graduate Career Coaching will answer the following questions in her presentation on Monday, August 24 at 7 pm: How can a recent graduate launch a career in this down economy? Which industries are hiring entry-level candidates? How important is networking? Can social media channels be used for the job hunt? This program is also recommended for students entering their senior year in college who want to learn what they could do now to prepare for the job market as well as any one looking for a job. Please register for this program on the "Calendar of Events" at www.wilmlibrary.org or call 978-694-2099.

Teen Summer Reading Winners!

The Teen Reader of the Week for August 3-10 is Samantha MacInnis. Samantha's winning entry was for Carl Hiaasen's Flush, which she enjoyed and suggests others read. Congratulations to Samantha!

School Summer Reading Assignments

There's still time to get your school summer reading book, if you haven't already. The Teen Zone has copies of all the books on the list, no matter what grade you're in. If you don't see a copy of the book you're looking for, please ask! We can reserve a copy for you, and call you when it comes in. We also have copies of the written assignments for sixth, seventh, and eighth grades.

Changes to the Teen Graphic Novel Collection

You're not imagining things—the books have really rearranged! Graphic novels and manga are now arranged alphabetically by the title, to help keep series together when the authors change. If you can't find something, please ask!

Boards disagree over variance

BOA expected to vacate its decision at September 9 meeting

By STEPHEN BJORCK

WILMINGTON - The Board of Appeals and the Planning Board recently heard them-

stop and across the street from Uptown Deli, includes a retail building housing a pizza shop, a real estate office, and a space that had recently been vacated. The building is owned by long-time Wilmington businessman, and former Wilmington selectman, John Perini.

Perini requested of the BOA and was granted a variance to allow the building to be used as a commercial building with vehicle storage on the first floor and office space and retail space on the second floor.

Fall natural history weekend trips offered by Mass Audubon's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary

Mass Audubon's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary in Topsfield is offering several natural history trips for adults this fall. Register now to reserve your place on these outings that offer spectacular scenery along with fabulous birding and natural history opportunities. Complete itineraries and more information are available by calling the sanctuary at 978-887-9264 or e-mail ipswichriver@massaudubon.org. Full trip descriptions can be viewed on our website: www.massaudubon.org/ipswichriver.

Birding and Baseball in Baltimore September 17-20

Indulge two of your favorite pastimes on this special long weekend that combines birding and baseball, cosponsored by Mass Audubon's Ipswich River and South Shore Sanctuaries. We'll spend half of our time birding in the city and the Chesapeake Bay area, and the other half at Oriole Park at Camden Yards, where we'll attend Orioles vs. Red Sox games Friday and Saturday nights. The trip includes a private tour of the stadium and a visit to the home team's dugout. FEE: $745 ($695/Mass Audubon members). The fee covers lodging, ground transportation, game tickets, tour admission, and field instruction with two Mass Audubon teacher-naturalists. Airfare and meals are not included. The trip begins and ends in Baltimore and is strictly limited to ten participants. For more information and to register, contact the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary at 978-887-9264 or ipswichriver@massaudubon.org.

Block Island Birding Weekend October 2-4

Join Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary Director Carol Decker and North River Wildlife Sanctuary educator John Galluzzo on this birding trip to Block Island, Rhode Island. Only 12 miles off the Rhode Island coast, this beautiful island offers a number of different habitats and spectacular scenery. In the fall, it offers a resting and feeding place for migrating shorebirds and ocean birds. The island also forms a natural trap for land birds that have wandered out over the ocean during their southward migration. The trip is limited to 10 participants. FEE: $508 ($450/Mass Audubon members). The fee includes round-trip van transportation, boat transportation, interpretive materials, field instruction, entrance fees, and lodging (double occupancy; single rooms may be available for a supplemental fee). For a complete itinerary and to register, contact the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary at 978-887-9264 or ipswichriver@massaudubon.org.

Monhegan Island Weekend October 2-4

Join Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary Teacher-Naturalist Scott Santino and Camp Wildwood Director Bob Speare for a weekend of birding and naturalizing on Monhegan Island, ten miles off the coast of Maine. Monhegan is not only remote and enchanting, but serves as a trap for migrant songbirds. We'll explore a variety of habitats including the rock-bound coastline, forest, and freshwater pond. A variety of seabirds and marine mammals can be seen on the ferry trips to and from the island. FEE: $498 ($440/Mass Audubon members). The fee includes round-trip van transportation from the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary in Topsfield, ferry transportation, most meals, and field instruction. For a complete itinerary and to register, contact the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary at 978-887-9264 or ipswichriver@massaudubon.org.

Boston College High School Local residents earn honors

TEWKSBURY - Andrew James Kilfoyle '10 of Tewksbury and Samuel Francis Grant '10 of Wilmington achieved Honors for the Fourth Quarter at Boston College High School. For Honors a student must have at least a 3.2 quality point average and all grades "C-" or higher.

Boston College High School is a Jesuit, Catholic, college-preparatory school for young men founded in 1863. The school enrolls approximately 1300 students from some 100 communities in eastern Massachusetts.

Jack Lynch enjoyed pizza with friends during the AIM Group meeting on Tuesday at the Knights of Columbus Hall. AIM stands for Access Is Mandatory, and was established for disabled individuals and their friends to meet regularly for social reasons, and to discuss just a little local bit of politics. They gather every Tuesday and have lunch and chat and play cards, and sometimes have a guest speaker.

Extreme Business Makeover New England

Local business leaders team together to offer over $100,000 toward makeover of local business

ANDOVER, Massachusetts (July 27, 2009) - Could your business use an Extreme Business Makeover? A team of business owners is pledging over $100,000 of free services to help make a difference in one local business.

A group of local leaders, including Wilmington's Andrew Hackett, announced recently a collaboration in which one local business will receive a FREE six-month, comprehensive business makeover - a no risk opportunity to thrive. The company selected will receive the guidance and support from a team of business owners, industry leaders, and category experts. This group will work closely with the business owners and their team, uncovering opportunities to increase sales, improve cash flow, strengthen operations, enhance training, and grow profits. Even in a recession.

Why are they doing this? "We are tired of seeing companies in the Merrimack Valley lose sales, lose hope, and lose out on opportunities to take advantage of these challenging economic times and prosper," said team leader, Bob DiRosa, founder of Market-Edge Services (www.marketedgeservices.com), a regional business management consultancy firm located in Derry, NH. "That is why we started this collaboration, Extreme Business Makeover New England."

The Eagle-Tribune, a daily newspaper in Northeastern Massachusetts and Southern New Hampshire, will chronicle this six month process of conducting the business makeover. The paper will share news of the success of the company's makeover, inspiring others to learn what happens when a company chooses action over inaction, and help over complacency.

"Who should apply? Any company that deserves a break!" shared Carter Welch, co-founder of the team and owner of Andover-based marketing services firm, The Fig Tree Group, (www.figtreeideas.com). "Any business owner in the Merrimack Valley is invited to apply, including service providers, retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers, B2B, B2C and others."

Business owners can apply by visiting the organization's website (www.extremebusinessmakeoverne.com) and completing a brief questionnaire. The team will then narrow the companies down to a select few that will receive on-site interviews, before determining the eventual winner.

Extreme Business Makeover New England is comprised of several local business leaders, giving their time and resources to help a local business grow. Greg Eliassen, founder of Eliassen CPA (www.eliasen CPA.com) will provide support in accounting, bookkeeping, and tax planning. Bill Coyne of Citizens bank will provide banking and loan support. Andy Hackett of Team Logic

IT (http://www.teamlogicit.com/woburn) will give direction on computer networking, maintenance and IT software and hardware needs. Jack Reeder of the Bulfinch Group will guide the winner in the areas of employee benefits, life and disability insurance. Rick Brownell, Jr., of Brownell Insurance Center (http://www.brownellinsurance.com) will evaluate lines of insurance and coverage. Laurel Weadick of ChoicesHR Outsourcing, (www.choicesHROUTSOURCING.com) will offer human resource guidance in compliance and benefits issues. Organizations interested in providing additional resources, are invited to contact the Extreme Business Makeover team.

The IVY CHORD Coffee House proudly presents Christine Lavin

READING - On Saturday, November 14, 2009 at 8:00 pm, Christine Lavin will be performing at The IVY CHORD Coffee House at the Unitarian Universalist Church of Reading located at 239 Woburn Street in Reading, MA.

Christine Lavin's smart and funny take on contemporary life and foible make for a one-of-a-kind concert. As a songwriter, she brings the shrewd insight and wit of a humor columnist together with a novelist's eye for evocative details. While the title of her 19th solo album may sound like a disclaimer "I Don't Make This Stuff Up... I Just Make It Rhyme." It is clear she is an expert on our days and our ways.

Abundantly clever and unabashedly fond of a good laugh, she is fearless. Her music and her spontaneity are unequivocal departures from today's overly choreographed numbers and amped-up lyrics. She also passes out recipes or goodie bags for people whose birthday falls during the holidays, drafts audience members onstage to join her for certain numbers and improvises brilliant song ripples as follow up.

General admission is $25 and for senior or student admission is $23. To purchase

MassHousing announces Tewksbury's Mortgage Financial, Inc. as approved lender for first-time homebuyer tax credit loan

BOSTON - August 19, 2009 - MassHousing announced today that Mortgage Financial, Inc., based in Tewksbury, is an approved lender of MassHousing's First-Time Homebuyer Tax Credit Loan that will allow first-time homebuyers to borrow up to $8,000 in advance of their federal tax credit for homes purchased with a MassHousing loan before November 30, 2009.

The First-Time Homebuyer Tax Credit Loan will allow Massachusetts homebuyers to use the $8,000 tax credit from the federal Housing and Economic Recovery Act (HERA) of 2008 as a funding source at the time of closing to help purchase the home. Under HERA, the maximum available credit is $8,000 and is claimed when homebuyers file their 2009 federal tax return. The program does not use any taxpayer funds.

"Mortgage Financial has been one of MassHousing's top lenders and we are pleased they will also be offering the First-Time Homebuyer Tax Credit Loan," said MassHousing Executive Director Thomas R. Gleason. "Now is a great time to buy a home and the Tax Credit Loan can make a huge difference for first-time buyers."

Homebuyers who take advantage of the program will have the principal and interest payments on the tax credit loan deferred from the time of closing until the loan due date of June 1, 2010. If the loan is not repaid in full by June 1, 2010, the loan will be amortized for 10 years at the same interest rate as their first mortgage loan.

"We are very pleased to be partnering with MassHousing in offering this exciting program to first-time homebuyers in Massachusetts," said Mortgage Financial CEO James B. Purtell. "Despite reports to the contrary, home ownership continues to be a very attainable goal for thousands of Massachusetts consumers thanks to our friends at MassHousing."

Qualifications for the First-

Time Homebuyer Tax Credit Loan include:

Applicants must be first-time homebuyers using a MassHousing first mortgage through a MassHousing approved lender such as Mortgage Financial, Inc. Homebuyers must use the home as a principal residence for a minimum of three years (the Tax Credit Loan cannot be used for investor properties).

Homebuyers must purchase a one, two, three or four-family home from a seller unrelated to the buyer by November 30, 2009.

MassHousing's home loans feature safe and affordable fixed rates and include unique benefits such as MassHousing's MI Plus(tm) mortgage insurance, which will help pay the borrower's monthly principal and interest payments for up to six months in the event of a job loss. MassHousing mortgages offer competitive interest rates, low- and no down payment options, and discounted rates for lower-income borrowers.

Tewksbury Historical Society All Class Reunion

TEWKSBURY - The Tewksbury Historical Society is sponsoring an All Class Reunion for any person who attended Tewksbury High School (known later as the Center School, today called the School Administration building). The building was Tewksbury High School from the fall of 1934 to June of 1959. People who attended or graduated from the school are invited to attend the reunion that will be held on Sept. 26, 2009 at the Tewksbury Senior Center. If you had an interest in the school as a resident or you were a worker in the school, or a Tewksbury resident who attended another school during this time, you may attend.

Festivities will start with a social gathering at 4:00 p.m. A buffet dinner will be served at 6:00 p.m. and will be followed by music and dancing. Other activities will be scheduled during the reunion. The Tewksbury Historical Society will show the 200th Anniversary Parade in 1934. It includes a video about Tewksbury High School and has a few old football games at the end of the videotape. A "Discovery" area will be set up for people to browse through the Society's photographic archives so Reunion Participants may help identify people, places, and other historic scenes in the photographs. A professional photographer will take pictures of each class. A class picture or a book of all class pictures will be available for sale. The Tewksbury Historical Society Social Store will be open for people to buy pictures or books about Tewksbury History.

People who attended Tewksbury High School during those years have been sent an invitation to join the festivities. If you did not receive an invitation, please do not fret. You may attend. Just write the Tewksbury Historical Society at P.O. Box 522, Tewksbury, Massachusetts 01876 or email us at tewksburyhistoricalsociety@msn.org. Invitations may be picked up or dropped off during on any Tuesday from 3:30-5:30 in the Local History Room at the Library.

This year the town is celebrating its 275th Anniversary. Information can be reviewed at tewksbury275.com. If you are interested in learning more about the Tewksbury Historical Society, go to its website tewksburyhistoricalsociety.org or write to us at the address above. The Society is a non-profit organization that preserves Tewksbury history, educates the public about Tewksbury history and encourages its members to do research into Tewksbury history. The Society has office hours each week at the Tewksbury Library's Local History room, every Tuesday, 3:30-5:30 p.m.

Tewksbury School Committee seeks community input

The Tewksbury School Committee is inviting parents/guardians and community members to serve on two important School Committee Sub-committees.

The first Sub-committee is the Budget Advisory Committee. This Committee meets monthly and reviews the School Department Budget and offers recommendations to the School Committee regarding the development of the School Department Budget.

The second Sub-committee is the School Re-configuration Committee. This group will review the many options for the assignment of students in our schools for the 2010-2011 school year. The goal of this Sub-committee is to recommend those options that are both educationally beneficial and cost effective.

Please submit a letter of interest to the Office of the Superintendent of Schools by Friday August 21, 2009. The Office is located at 139 Pleasant Street. Our FAX number is 978-640-7804 and the email address is:

cmcgrath@tewksbury.k12.ma.us

We hope that many members of our community will consider serving on these important Sub-committees. Thank you.

Boards disagree over variance

Forrest owned and operated the Forrest Mobil service station located at the intersection of West Street and Lowell Street for many years before selling out several years ago. He spent a number of years as a member of Wilmington's BOA and was appointed to a seat on the Board of Selectmen in 2002 to fill a vacancy. He chose not to run for reelection to retain the seat.

calling it, "clean as a whistle," and told selectmen that the equipment will begin showing up on the site Tuesday to begin demolishing the structure August 19. According to Hooper, the process will take two to three weeks, bringing it close to the start of school.

Hooper stated that all the debris will be removed from the site and that the site will be level and made of dirt. The construction should not affect parking for the first day of school. Hooper said he would work with the Department of Public Works to pave the site following demolition.

Declared "surplus and unnecessary" the Swain School had asbestos in the plaster, window glazing, floor tile, and pipe insulation and that the removal of the matter is the primary cost driver. Town meeting approved $160,000 for asbestos removal and demolition of the structure.

Giannattasio vs Cimaglia

CIMAGLIA: So Mike, it's pretty hard these days to avoid stories of athletes getting in trouble with the law. It seems like everyday there is a new marquis name in the news for some scandal. I can't understand how these guys are allowed back into professional sports. They make an incredibly hefty paycheck playing a sport.

In this pressing economic era, families struggle to keep food on the table and make ends meet by working multiple jobs and making difficult sacrifices. If guys like Michael Vick, Plaxico Burress, Donte Stallworth and others are dumb enough to make moronic decisions like they have made, then they should not be allowed back into the league. No nonsense, Mike. One strike and you're out.

GIANNATTASIO: One strike and you're out? Come on Louie give me a break. Everyone makes mistakes in life and second chance opportunities should be given to each and every one of us. I'm an animal lover and what Michael Vick did is reprehensible, but Vick served his time in jail and apologized for his crimes. Get over it, and let him be reinstated to the NFL and move on. Donte Stallworth and Plaxico Burress made mistakes and are presently feeling the consequences of their actions as well.

Also, society is better served to have these athletes perform community service and speak out to the public about their bad behavior as opposed to being banned from the league and disappearing forever. If they only get one strike then we're teaching society that second chances don't happen and a person cannot be rehabilitated.

CIMAGLIA: Is society really better served for these felons and ex-cons to be back on national television making millions of dollars just a couple years after committing some heinous crime? Mike, I believe that playing sports professionally is a privilege. If these guys want to rehabilitate and aid society, then they can go join the real world and try to find a job. Here's a stat for you: a survey shows that 85-90 percent of employers will not hire ex-cons. How is it fair that Vick, Burress and whoever else to jump right back into the NFL? It doesn't make sense to me. These athletes have been put on a pedestal in our society, and frankly that's not how it should be.

And don't you think a more powerful message would be sent if these guys do disappear forever? If they commit a felony and don't get reinstated in their league, not just the NFL, don't you think that is making a much more influential statement? Call me old fashioned Mike, these guys had their chance, and they blew it.

GIANNATTASIO: I disagree with you here Louie. I believe these high profile athletes, such as Vick and Burress, have already been knocked off their pedestals as they have been vilified by society and rightfully so. Yet, they should still be employable in their chosen profession. These high profile athletes should serve as an example of how not to act in society. Holding these athletes accountable for their actions, and using their status to show young people and others today that this is not how we behave in a civilized society will do more good in the long run.

These athletes can never take back the crimes they have committed, but I truly believe they can use their situations to help educate others. What better way to turn these horrific crimes into a teaching tool instead of wasting the lives of these players who still have a lot to offer both on the field and off. Give these athletes a chance now to get on the right path and see what those results are.

CIMAGLIA: Mike, I admire your optimism on this topic. It's cute, really it is. But just because these guys are reinstated doesn't mean they are changed men and are now inundated with clergy-like morals. Acclaimed sportswriter Frank Deford has said that these athletes know they are role models, but at the end of the day they aren't going to honor that responsibility in most cases. They are still going to go out and do dumb things.

Studies have shown that kids who are surveyed rank athletes as the second most important people in their lives, behind their parents. Kids take notice of the reinstatement of athletes. It's setting a contradictory precedent, saying athletes can commit felonies and still play sports. Not just any crimes...felonies. These athletes are not teaching many beneficial things. Being a professional athlete is a privilege. If you can't be smart enough not to commit a felony, then you haven't earned the right to continue being a professional athlete.

GIANNATTASIO: Louie, I wasn't aiming for cute but I was just trying to keep it real. These guys have been given a second chance. Now it is up to them to see what they do with this second chance. They will be judged on a much different level than they were before, as their lives will be dissected and held to a much more dubious population. Time will tell if they are able to turn their lives around and be the people that they were meant to be. I'm hoping that their behavior is something others can learn from.

I believe their fall from grace will be better utilized to teach others that their behavior is not to be tolerated. If your stats are correct that kids rank athletes as the second most important people in their lives, what better education will they be getting from these players? They will see that it is wrong to harm defenseless animals, drinking and driving leads to death and playing with handguns ends up in disaster. I think putting these guys back on the field and using their notoriety will save more lives in the end. I believe in second chances Louie, not third chances. Let's see what they can do.

Wildcat U14 softball team finishes with 10-4 record

The Middle-Essex Softball League ended its 2009 summer season last week. The Wilmington Wildcats U14 team finished off by winning their final three games and ending an exciting and successful season.

Reading Rage 9, Wilmington 1

Wilmington met the Reading Rage in the first game of the season and were defeated in a close game, 4-2. The rematch took place at the West field in Wilmington and this time the Rage didn't allow the Wildcats to get that close, taking the game 9-1. The Reading pitcher struck out fifteen Wilmington batters and allowed only five hits. Although they couldn't generate much offense the Wildcats kept it close for the first three innings with strong defense.

First baseman Megan Howland made a nice scoop in the first inning to get the last out and save a run. Kelsey Mangan made several good catches in right field in the early innings.

In the fourth, leftfielder Charlene Sullivan went back on a long hit, retrieved the ball and fired to cutoff Jackie Kennedy, who turned and threw to Jackie Parece at thirdbase to gun down the runner trying to stretch the double into a triple. Katie MacDougall made a running catch in centerfield in the 5th inning. The offense never really got it going in this one. Kennedy had two hits and scored Wilmington's only run on a passed ball. MacDougall, Parece, and Alyssa Cappuccio had the other hits for the Wildcats.

Wilmington 5, Lunenburg 4 (8 innings)

On Wednesday, Wilmington travelled to Lunenburg for a rematch with the Lady Knights. In a well played game by both teams, the Wildcats evened the series with a 5-4 extra inning victory.

Pitcher Charlene Sullivan scattered seven hits and allowed only three walks in eight innings.

Three Lunenburg pitchers gave up a total of eight hits and struck out eleven, including the last pitcher striking out seven in a row in the sixth, seventh, and top of the eighth innings. Kim Woods, Katie MacDougall, and Lauren McKenna each had two hits in the game. Jackie Parece and Megan Howland had the other two hits.

The big hit came in the top of the eighth inning with the scored tied at 4-4. With one out, Woods singled, moved to second on a ground out and then MacDougall doubled her home with the winning run. Sullivan then retired three of four Lunenburg hitters in the bottom of the eighth for the win. McKenna, Howland and Alyssa Cappuccio also had a RBI each.

Strong defensive plays were turned in by Kennedy Harper in right field and Kelsey Mangan at secondbase in the third inning, Jackie Kennedy at shortstop and Howland at firstbase in the fourth, and Casey MacDonald in leftfield and Woods in centerfield in the sixth. Thirdbasemen McKenna and Danielle Reynolds, catcher Cappuccio, and outfielder MacDougall were steady throughout the game.

Wilmington 9, Amesbury 1

In a game hosted by the Wildcats at the West field, Wilmington scored four runs in the third inning, one in the fourth and four more in the sixth to run away with a 9-1 victory over the Amesbury Diamonds.

Casey MacDonald pitched well, going the distance for Wilmington. She was aided by a strong defense, especially Danielle Reynolds at thirdbase who made several good plays throughout the game. Kim Woods, Kelsey Mangan and Kennedy Harper each had two hits, with one of Harper's being a lead-off double in the sixth inning. Katie MacDougall, Jackie Parece and Reynolds had one hit each for the Wildcats.

Wilmington 14, Littleton 8

For the final game of the season, Wilmington travelled to Littleton to play the Tigers at the Littleton High School. The Wildcats scored 11 runs in the first three innings to carry them to a 14-8 win. Megan Howland led the offense with two hits and three RBI. Alyssa Cappuccio had two hits, including a RBI-double in the first inning. Kennedy Harper also had two hits and two runs scored.

Other Wilmington hits were recorded by Lauren

McKenna, Katie MacDougall and Jackie Parece. Rachel Mills, called up to help out a shorthanded Wildcat team, got a RBI the hard way when she was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded. Littleton only had one big inning off pitcher Charlene Sullivan, who pitched well for all seven innings.

Once again, the defense came up big with strong plays throughout the game. Howland stretched out to make a good catch at firstbase in the second inning. With a runner on thirdbase, Littleton bunted in the third inning. Howland charged in and fired to Cappuccio behind the plate to nail the runner coming home. Jackie Kennedy at shortstop made a fine play for one out in that inning.

In the fourth, McKenna at thirdbase, Parece at secondbase and Sullivan on the mound all made good plays for outs.

In the fifth, Mills made a catch in right field and then fired to Howland at first to double up the Littleton runner. Kelsey Mangan made two strong catches in right field but the big one came in the bottom of the 6th with darkness rolling in and she made a running catch to retire the batter.

Wilmington finished their successful summer season with a 10-4 record in the Middle-Essex League. Head Coach of the team was Jackie Rubino. Jim Howland and Bill Kennedy were the assistant coaches.

TOWN OF
WILMINGTONRequest for Proposals
Cellular/Wireless
Communications
Installation Site Lease

The Town of Wilmington, through the Office of the Town Manager and Water and Sewer Commission, is seeking written proposals by interested parties for the leasing of a site for a cellular/wireless communication facility ("Facility") in the Town for property located at the Nassau Avenue, Eagle road in Wilmington, known as a Town-owned water storage tank. This Request for Proposals ("RFP") is made pursuant to Massachusetts General Law, Chapter 30B, Section 16, pertaining to lease of real property.

The purpose of this RFP is to make a site owned by the Town available on a fair and competitive basis for the location of cellular/wireless communication facilities and to minimize any adverse effects of the location of such facilities on the Town and its residents. On or after August 19, 2009, a copy of the RFP may be obtained from the Town Manager's Office, Wilmington Town Hall, 121 Glen Road, Wilmington, Massachusetts 01887, telephone 978/658-3311, Monday through Friday 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Sealed proposals in response to the RFP must be received before 12:00 p.m., Friday, September 18, 2009 at the Town Manager's Office. All proposals received by the specified date and time will be publicly acknowledged and will be evaluated in private. No proposal will be accepted after the time and date specified.

Carr, Wong and Bozzella honored for academic excellence at UMass-Lowell

UMass Lowell placed 34 student-athletes on the second annual National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) Division II Athletic Directors Association Academic Achievement winners' list.

UMass Lowell was one of eight Northeast-10 Conference institutions to be honored as the D2ADA cited 115 colleges and 4,020 student-athletes, up from 67 and 2,188 a year ago.

To be eligible, student-athletes must have a cumulative grade point average over a 3.5, attended four semesters of college-level work, and been a member of an intercollegiate team during his/her last academic year.

UMass Lowell's women's track and field and cross country teams had the most student-athletes named to the list with 11 while the hockey team had five members cited.

The DII ADA is the first organization of its kind to provide educational and networking opportunities; enhancement of acceptable operating standards and ethics; and establishment of the overall prestige and understanding of the profession of Division II athletics directors.

Among the locals included on the list include Tewksbury residents Jennifer Carr (track and field), and Vicky Wong (volleyball) as well as Wilmington resident Brianne Bozzella (soccer).

WHS Hall of Fame info

The Wilmington High School Athletic Hall of Fame Committee has announced that the nomination deadline for this year is September 15, 2009. All nominations must be postmarked no later than the deadline in order to be considered.

Established in 1990, Wilmington's Hall of Fame honors the school's athletes, coaches, benefactors, and special contributors.

The selection process is based on the rule that the candidates for induction be evaluated on what they did in sports while at Wilmington High School exclusively. Achievements in sports while at college or at the professional level will have no bearing on the selection committee's deliberations.

To be eligible for nomination, the athletes must have participated in at least one varsity sport. Athletes nominated for the Hall of Fame must have graduated at least ten years prior to nomination.

All nominations should be sent to:

Ms Cheryl Tavares - WHS Athletic Hall of Fame
Wilmington High School
159 Church Street
Wilmington, MA 01887.

Ipswich Wildlife events

Mass Audubon's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary in Topsfield is offering several natural history trips for adults this fall. Register now to reserve your place on these outings that offer spectacular scenery along with fabulous birding and natural history opportunities. Complete itineraries and more information are available by calling the sanctuary at 978-887-9264 or e-mail ipswichriver@massaudubon.org. Full trip descriptions can be viewed on our website: www.massaudubon.org/ipswichriver.

Birding and Baseball in Baltimore: September 17-

20 Indulge two of your favorite pastimes on this special long weekend that combines birding and baseball, cosponsored by Mass Audubon's Ipswich River and South Shore Sanctuaries. We'll spend half of our time birding in the city and the Chesapeake Bay area, and the other half at Oriole Park at Camden Yards, where we'll attend Orioles vs. Red Sox games Friday and Saturday nights. The trip includes a private tour of the stadium and a visit to the home team's dugout. FEE: $745 ($695/Mass Audubon members).

The fee covers lodging, ground transportation, game tickets, tour admission, and field instruction with two Mass Audubon teacher-naturalists. Airfare and meals are not included. The trip begins and ends in Baltimore and is strictly limited to ten participants. For more information and to register, contact the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary at 978-887-9264 or ipswichriver@massaudubon.org.

Block Island Birding
Weekend: October 2-4

Join Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary Director Carol Decker and North River Wildlife Sanctuary educator John Galluzzo on this birding trip to Block Island, Rhode Island. Only 12 miles off the Rhode Island coast, this beautiful island offers a number of different habitats and spectacular scenery. In the fall, it offers a resting and feeding place for migrating shorebirds and ocean birds. The island also forms a natural trap for land birds that have wandered out over the ocean during their southward migration. The trip is limited to 10 participants. FEE: $508 ($450/Mass Audubon members). The fee includes round-trip van transportation, boat transportation, interpretive materials, field instruction, entrance fees, and lodging (double occupancy; single rooms may be available for a supplemental fee). For a complete itinerary and to register, contact the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary at 978-887-9264 or ipswichriver@massaudubon.org.

Monhegan Island
Weekend: October 2-4

Join Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary Teacher-Naturalist Scott Santino and Camp Wildwood Director Bob Speare for a weekend of birding and naturalizing on Monhegan Island, ten miles off the coast of Maine. Monhegan is not only remote and enchanting, but serves as a trap for migrant songbirds. We'll explore a variety of habitats including the rock-bound coastline, forest, and freshwater pond. A variety of seabirds and marine mammals can be seen on the ferry trips to and from the island. FEE: $498 ($440/Mass Audubon members). The fee includes round-trip van transportation from the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary in Topsfield, ferry transportation, most meals, and field instruction. For a complete itinerary and to register, contact the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary at 978-887-9264 or ipswichriver@massaudubon.org.

Racket Up America

Ever dream of serving for the big prize, in front of thousands of fans? You can live your dream through a tennis-industry-wide sweepstakes called "Racket UP, America!"

If you're the lucky winner, you'll receive a trip to New York City to attend the "BNP Paribas Showdown for the Billie Jean King Cup" in Madison Square Garden on March 1, which will feature the top women tennis players in the world. In the middle of it all, you'll step up to the line and hit a serve to a target that could make you a millionaire.

In the unique promotion, anyone who buys a new tennis racket—of any brand, and at any tennis retailer or pro shop—through Sept. 30, 2009, could win the chance to serve for $1 million. Consumers simply register their racket purchase at playtennis.com/million. Other prizes include a trip for two to the 2010 US Open Men's Singles and Women's Doubles finals and 20 $500 tennis merchandise prize packs. (Free entry available, see playtennis.com/million for official rules and details.)

The BNP Paribas Showdown on March 1, which is part of "Tennis Night in America," will bring together four of the world's best women pros who are 2009 Grand Slam winners or No. 1 players, vying for $1.2 million in prize money and the Billie Jean King Cup. Serena Williams is the defending champion, and so far, she and Svetlana Kuznetsova have qualified for the Madison Square Garden event. Williams won the 2009 Australian Open and Wimbledon tournaments; Kuznetsova won this year's French Open. (For more on the BNP Paribas Showdown, visit www.stargamesinc.com/bnpparibasshowdown.html.)

The Showdown's format will be two one-set semifinals followed by a best-of-three-set final. The "Racket UP, America!" sweepstakes winner will hit the potential million-dollar serve between the second seminal and the final, in front of the MSG crowd and a television audience. The winner also will meet tennis legends Billie Jean King and Ivan Lendl, along with other tennis champions.

You can follow "Racket Up, America!" on Twitter and Facebook. More information, including official rules and details, is at playtennis.com/million.

Let's Canoe

Have you ever thought about taking up canoeing? Paddling lazily along on a beautiful scenic New England pond? Well you're in luck because Harold Parker State Forest is now offering a Free Canoe program sponsored by the Department of Conservation and Recreation.

The park's interpreter, Bob Anderson will instruct participants on the basics of canoe handling and water safety and lead a guided paddle around one of Harold Parker's picturesque ponds.

The final date for this program is Saturday August 29th. The program will generally run around 2 hours. Canoes are provided by DCR however, it is recommended that you bring sun screen, insect repellent, water, a camera and your own life vest is you have one, otherwise one will be provided.

This program is limited to 16 adults over the age of 18 and a mandatory pre-registration is required by calling (978)475-7972.

This program will meet at the Forest Headquarters parking lot on Middleton Road, North Andover, MA.

PREPARING YOUR DECK for harsh winter weather is one way to ensure it maintains its look for years to come.

Protect your deck this winter

Your deck has probably given you hours of enjoyment this spring and summer. But family gatherings and summer barbecues can take their toll on any deck.

So before the chill in the air turns to harsh winter weather, clean, restore and protect your deck to prepare for the long winter months ahead. Here are a few easy deck maintenance tips to help keep your outdoor living space looking great for years!

Clean and restore: Start by cleaning your deck thoroughly to remove any grayed surface fibers, ground-in dirt, barbecue stains and stains from mold, mildew, moss, and algae.

For pressure-treated wood, use an environmentally friendly, acid and chlorine-free, oxygen-powered powder concentrate cleaner, such as Wolman DeckBrite Wood Cleaner & Coating Prep. It is tough on stains yet safe to use near plant life and shrubs. For cedar, redwood, mahogany and other exotic hardwood decks -- or if you're not sure of the wood type -- consider a cleaner that's formulated to clean all types of wood like Wolman Deck & Fence Brightener liquid concentrate. These cleaners restore wood to its natural beauty without bleaching or yellowing. In just ten minutes they loosen and lift dirt, stains and discoloration. And they are easy to use -- just mix with water, spray on, brush in and rinse off with a garden hose.

If your stained or painted deck has seen better days, consider stripping any faded or deteriorating finish with Wolman DeckStrip Stain & Finish Remover. It removes both oil and latex solid, semi-transparent or transparent, toner-type stains and prepares your deck for new water repellent sealers or stains.

Protect your deck: After cleaning, it's important to apply a water repellent finish like Wolman RainCoat, F&P or DuraStain to your deck before winter's onslaught. Formulated to stop rain, sleet, snow and ice from penetrating wood surfaces, Wolman water repellent coatings minimize water damage such as splitting or warping. The products offer a guarantee against water damage, and provide long lasting protection, so you won't have to reapply a new coat year after year. Plus, they are available in a variety of colors and opacity levels -- from totally clear to sheer, transparent natural wood tones to semi-transparent shades -- so you can protect your deck while achieving virtually any look you desire.

Men's night league at Ferullo Field Adult baseball flourishing in Woburn

By GORDON VINCENT

WOBURN - It's the last inning and Dennis Doble badly needs three outs.

About the only thing that's evaporated on a sultry night at Ferullo Field in North Woburn is a few miles an hour on Doble's fastball. He's still popping catcher Steve Palumbo's mitt with authority, but not as regularly as he had been earlier in the game.

Doble's undefeated Black Sox are clinging to a 6-4 lead over the pesky Red Storm, who came into the game with a 3-3 record in the Woburn-based Men's Night Baseball League (MNBL) and are sending up arguably their best three hitters in the top of the seventh inning.

Doble, a Burlington native, gets a generous third strike call to retire Chris Sutherland, which brings up Woburn's Todd Boutwell, who already has two hits in three previous plate appearances. Boutwell, who played both baseball and hockey at Woburn High, works the count to 3-2 but gets fooled and swings at a breaking ball in the dirt for strike three. Patrick McDonough, another dangerous hitter, flies to center field for the final out of the game, and the Black Sox improve their record to a sparkling 7-0 and increase their lead in the MNBL's East Division to 2 1/2 games.

"Not pretty, huh?" Doble asks a reporter as he drinks a well-earned Vitamin Water after the game.

Doble's pitching line mostly belies a lack of aesthetics - a complete game, 7 hits, 4 runs, 2 earned, with 4 walks, a hit batsman and a whopping 14 strikeouts.

Scenes like the one at Ferullo Field are being played out with more common frequency as amateur adult baseball leagues continue to rise in popularity. The MNBL is an independent, over-21 league in its eighth season, with two 4-team divisions. Teams play once or twice a week from July until late September, followed by playoffs.

The league is the brainchild of Joe Wells, who played baseball at Woburn High, continued his career as a member of the Wakefield Twi League, and wanted to bring something similar to his hometown.

"The gist of it was I wanted to start a league in Woburn that was competitive and fun, and with baseball the way I think it was meant to be played, with respect for the game," said Wells, who graduated from WMHS in 1991 and also played football and ran indoor track.

Adult recreational baseball is a phenomenon that started about two decades ago, most notably with Steve Sigler's Men's Senior Baseball League (MSBL), which started with 60 players in New York and has since mushroomed into a national outfit with about 45,000 players and 3,200 teams that may opt to compete annually in national tournaments in Arizona and Orlando, Fla.

The Woburn Braves were a charter team in the Boston MSBL, which is now the largest amateur league in New England, and won a couple of championships in 1991-92 before switching to the Roy Hobbs League.

(The Winchester Pirates currently play in the Boston MSBL's over-30 division, and split their home games between Ferullo Field and Skillings Field at Winchester High.)

Woburn was bereft of adult baseball for about 10 years, when Wells formed the MNBL. Unlike the Boston MSBL, which has an 18-29 division, a 30-plus division, and a 40-plus division, there are no age divisions in the MNBL. The league also has a tryout format that is distinct. In most leagues, managers recruit their own talent. In the MNBL, everyone tries out and there is a draft.

"That was by design," said Wells. "I wanted every team to be competitive. We didn't want to have the draft manipulated so one or two teams ended up with all the better players. We wanted to have it so the teams that finished with the worst records ended up with the (earlier) picks."

Still, the Black Sox are something of a dynasty, having won three of the last four titles, including the past two in a row. They have the top four ERA leaders in the league - Doble, Dan Ardito, Marshall Daniels and Marc Antetomaso - all under 2.00.

"The league has gotten better every year," said Antetomaso, a Belmont native who is in his third season in the MNBL. "Almost every game we play is close. These guys (Red Storm) gave us a good game tonight."

Doble is the reigning league MVP, and according to Black Sox manager Ardito, has compiled a pitching record of 17-0 with 5 saves in the past three years.

"But I never let him know that," laughs Ardito, who was Doble's teammate and himself a star pitcher on some exceptional Burlington High teams in the early '90s, including a Div. 2 North finalist.

Another Black Sox teammate is Belmont native Marshall Daniels, who was a key member of the Marauders' squad that defeated the Red Devils for the sectional title.

"Don't remind me," said Doble. "I have (Daniels) to remind me every day about it."

Doble, Ardito and Daniels were good enough to play collegiate baseball - Doble at Harvard, Ardito at Bryant College and Daniels at Bridgewater State. All three also played in local amateur leagues - primarily the MetroNorth-based Intercity League and the venerable Boston Park League, but eventually were unable to continue due to other commitments.

"The Intercity League is for the college kids," said Doble. "And it's three or four games a week. That's a lot of baseball."

The MNBL is bereft of trash talk - "chirping" in baseball parlance - between players from opposing teams. Even the infrequent disagreements with the umpires are polite, brief, and respectful.

"A lot of these guys don't know how (to chirp)," laughs Daniels.

Wells says he likes it that way.

"We can be competitive, but everyone needs to remember we all have to get up and go to work the next day," said Wells.

Former rivals, Doble and Daniels became fishing buddies before they became members of the same baseball team. Ardito took over management of the Black Sox from Woburn native Len Burnham, who coached both Doble and Ardito through the Burlington Babe Ruth division.

The MNBL isn't necessarily for ex-college players, though. There are athletes of all baseball resumes, shapes

Movie Reviews

"DISTRICT 9" SMART AND ORIGINAL

"DISTRICT 9" is one of the most original movies in years. It could be a traditional aliens vs human movies, but the movie is so much more. Along with great effects, it mixes in social issues with full-on action. Go see this film.

"DISTRICT 9"
GRADE: ****

Twenty years ago in Johannesburg, South Africa, a giant spaceship parked itself above the city. After several months of not knowing why it was there, humans decided to cut their way in to see what was inside. What they found were a million malnourished alien drones without any form of central leadership.

Without a home to go to, the government took it upon itself to set up a refugee camp for the aliens directly below the ship. But over the last 20 years, their numbers have vastly increased, and so have the tensions with the human population.

When Wikus Van Der Merwe (Copley) is assigned the task of peacefully evicting the massive population of dangerous aliens, he comes across a secret that will have a deep effect on both the human and alien races.

Original film making is hard to come by these days, and this is truly one of the most original films in years. The movie looks like an expensive studio film, but in reality, it is a $30 million movie, produced by Peter Jackson, the genius behind "The Lord of the Rings" trilogy. The effects are eye-popping, with a world that actually looks like a place where humans and insect-like aliens co-exist together.

But the film is so much more than effects. The script mixes in social issues like apartheid and morality, and then switches to full-on action modes without missing a fast and furious step. This could have been a preachy sci-fi film, the messages behind it only hit home after you've had time to reflect.

It's hard to believe that this is Copley's first feature film, as he is perfect throughout. It's hard to imagine anyone that could have turned in a better performance in this role.

This is writer/director Neil Blomkamp's first feature as well, and he hits it out of the park. Go and see this film - if movies like District 9 and The Hangover succeed, it's a strong message to the powers that be that there is an audience that wants smart, original material and will pay to see it.

"G.I. JOE: THE RISE OF COBRA"
GRADE: ***

As a 13-year-old in 1984, I loved to watch the original G.I. Joe cartoon and collect its accompanying action figures. This week, myself and others like me can head out on a nostalgia-trip by checking out G.I. Joe: The Rise of Cobra, a film that succeeds as a high-powered, good-versus-bad adventure that offers little substance, but lots of action.

The film stars Channing Tatum as Duke, lifelong soldier who enlists in G.I. Joe's top-secret defense program after he and his friend Ripcord (Marlon Wayans) are rescued by its team during an attack on their military convoy.

Joining the ranks of Breaker (Said Taghmaoui), Heavy Duty (Adewale Akinnuoye-Agbaje), Scarlett (Rachel Nichols), Snake Eyes (Ray Park) and General Hawk (Dennis Quaid), Duke and Ripcord are recruited to protect a deadly new weapon that ultimately ends up in the hands of Baroness (Sienna Miller), Storm Shadow (Byung-Hun Lee) and McCullen (Christopher Eccleston), who intend to use it to spread fear and control the planet's leaders.

Soon, Duke, Ripcord and the rest of the Joes find themselves racing around the globe to apprehend COBRA's leaders and intercept their attack before the world's populations are laid waste.

Thanks to wall-to-wall action, there's precious little time for plot concerns to distract audiences. The few instances in which the dialogue is laughable all fall into so-bad-they're-good territory, and the rest of the exchanges either explain what's just happened or set up what's about to.

Further, the film provides itself with an admittedly ridiculous but surprisingly constant internal logic that justifies each new revelation, be it a scientific breakthrough or technique that allows for something awesome to happen.

G.I. Joe probably will appeal most to the 12-year-olds in the audience, or at least those adults most eager to embrace their inner 12-year-olds. Even with its decidedly grown-up destruction, it feels like a movie that was engineered for thrill-seeking 'tweens, deliberately leaving matters like international politics, personal morality and the complexities of heroism and villainy on the sidelines of the story. But as a trip down memory lane, and the best kind of summer escapism, G.I. Joe delivers what it promises: the reinvention of an animated series as a live-action adventure.

"FUNNY PEOPLE"
GRADE: ***

When famous actor/comedian George Simmons (Adam Sandler) learns he has a terminal illness, he takes a young comedian under his wing (Seth Rogen). As his condition worsens, he faces the reality that he doesn't really have any friends or anyone to love, but then as his condition improves, he must decide if the lessons he thought he had learned are really that important to him.

When word got out that Judd Apatow was going to make a film about comedy, I couldn't wait to see what he was going to do, but then I heard that he was bringing lymphoma into it. How can you make that funny?

The answer is you can't, even when Sandler and Rogen are trying to joke with the European physician during his doctor's visit. There is an air of discomfort, and you end up feeling more sad than silly. The fact is, this film is very funny, but because of the gravity of both the illness and Simmons trying to deal with his wasted life, the laughs aren't big, but more heartfelt and emotional than usual.

Each of the performances are great, especially Sandler's. He really nails this role, and Rogen comes in right behind him. It was also great to see Leslie Mann get a chance to be in a less light-hearted role as well.

Ashe did with 40-Year-Old-Virgin and Knocked Up, as well as countless other hits he has produced over the last few years, Apatow seems to have put together a perfect combination of drama and comedy with a huge dose of reality. It also helps that not only is his writing as strong as ever, but his directing and storytelling skills are maturing.

The only weak links are a couple of sequences involving Andy Dick, Eminem and Ray Romano, which look like they were meant to be DVD extras that somehow ended up in the final version.

Winter Hill to offer First-time Homebuyer tax credit loan program

WINTER HILL BANK® CustomServe Banking

Winter Hill Bank has been selected to participate in the newly established Tax Credit Loan Program for eligible first-time homebuyers. The program was announced recently by Governor Patrick and was developed to assist first-time homebuyers by making the new tax credit recently enacted in the Federal Housing and Economic Act of 2008 and 2009 available for buyers to use toward the purchase of a home.

Under the program, the tax credit will be made available up front in the form of a loan up to a maximum of $8,000.00 toward primary residence home purchases made before December 1, 2009. The monies may be used for down payment, closing costs, and other closing related expenses and will be made available to the buyer at the loan closing.

The Tax Credit Loan will be interest free if repaid by June 1, 2010. Applicants must be first-time homebuyers using a MassHousing first mortgage through a selected MassHousing approved lender.

Pauline D'Aurora, Sr. Vice President/Chief Lending Officer of Winter Hill Bank, stated "The program will certainly go a long way to decrease out of pocket expenses and will bring out many prospective homebuyers that have not been able to take advantage of the market due to limited savings.

The effect of this program will also help to stimulate the local housing market. The Bank is looking forward to partnering with MassHousing and having the opportunity to provide this needed assistance to the first-time homebuyer."

For further information about the program, homebuyers may contact Rich Vernet at 617-666-8600 Ext. 2221 and may also visit www.winterhillbank.com or www.masshousing.com for detailed eligibility requirements.

Date with Tad Hamilton! comes this so-called comedy, a predictable tale of opposites attracting.

The Ugly Truth's opposites are Katherine Heigl's Abby Richter, producer of A.M. Sacramento, a morning TV news show, and Gerard Butler's Mike Chadway, a self-proclaimed self-help guru of sex and relationships.

Beautiful and single, Abby has high expectations for men, a list of specific requirements that likely are impossible to meet. Her first exposure to Mike gets her bristling.

She happens to catch his public-access TV program, a platform from which he espouses his thoughts about men and women. Mike's bottom-line message? Men are selfish dogs. Take them or leave them.

The script sets Abby up as an accomplished TV producer who succeeds despite the talent level she works with. But everything takes a U-turn when Mike comes

THE BEAR MINIMUM IN STONEHAM

"Stoneham's Beacon Hill delegation has vowed to lobby vigorously on behalf of Zoo New England, which has threatened to shutter Stone Zoo if $4 million in state funding isn't restored to its budget," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"As Stone Zoo's two black bears stalked around their enclosure and pawed playfully with a large plastic barrel in the backdrop, Senate Minority Leader Richard Tisei (R-Wakefield) and State Representatives James Dwyer (D-Woburn) and Jason Lewis (D-Winchester) intimated that aboard with his shock-talk, and the ratings take off.

Then the so-called independent Abby asks Mike to be her relationship coach, and the film really goes off the rails of plausibility.

Heigl and Butler show how far appealing leads can carry a poor movie, but they can only do so much with what they are given.

This may look like a date movie, but Mike himself would probably recommend avoiding it.

Potter, meet puberty. There don't seem to be any cases of acne at the Hogwarts school in the "Harry Potter" films, but as this latest installment proves, when it comes to teen heartbreak, despair and adolescent rage young wizards with wands are as susceptible as those without.

Beacon Hill legislators would override Gov. Deval Patrick's $4 million veto of the zoo funding.

"After the three legislators held the press conference at the crowded zoo, located adjacent to Spot Pond on the Melrose line, all three legislators opined that it is almost certain that Patrick's cut would be overridden by a three-fourths majority in both houses.

"We're all here on a bipartisan basis to let you all know that when the veto comes up, [we intend] to make sure it's overridden," said Tisei, whose district, as with Lewis and Dwyer, includes Stoneham.

"It's vitally important we keep this open," commented Dwyer, who recalled recently bringing his grandchild to the Stone Zoo. "I can tell you [House Speaker Robert DeLeo] is on board. He understands the importance of keeping these zoos open."

NO SURPRISES IN BURLINGTON

"The Planned Development District in Northwest Park will proceed, but at a much slower pace than the original schedule," notes the Burlington edition of the of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"That was the key message from Todd Fremont-Smith, vice president, development for the Nordblom Co., owners of the 127-acre park, in a recent presentation to the Planning Board.

"Fremont-Smith said the overall economy has drastically slowed Nordblom's efforts to conduct a major makeover of the park, which is located between Middlesex Turnpike and Route 3.

"This has been a crazy few months for all of us in the marketplace," he stated.

"The company gained approval in 2007 for a mixed-use development, which would include Class A office space in the north section and a combination of retail and residential in the southern area.

"Since then, Nordblom also acquired the former Sun Microsystems campus on Network Drive.

"Last year, the state declared the turnpike area a Growth District ... He said the southern end of the property would create 'a sense of urban life in the suburbs, which we think will resonate.'

"Fremont-Smith noted 4.6 million square feet of development has been approved for the turnpike area.

"Plans for Northwest Park, he explained, include 600,000 square feet of retail space, 300 residential units, and a hotel with 225 rooms. There would be 3.5 million square feet of office space

MAJOR STEP FORWARD IN TEWKSBURY

"The School Committee

took a definitive step in banning smoking on school property," notes the Tewksbury "Town Crier."

"Violation of the ban could bring heavy fines, as high as $300 for both students and faculty members of Tewksbury Public Schools for subsequent offenses. The town is looking to create a policy that serves as a deterrent for members of the school community and to create a healthier school.

"Tewksbury is looking into installing tamper-proof smoke detectors in all student bathrooms. The town would also like to rehire a second hall monitor, with both of them supervising the hallways and parking lots.

"The policy is a bold move in curtailing smoking on school property."

"About the Towns" covers recent events in the 10-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town.

I lost 14 pounds and a total of 9 inches in just 12 weeks

I tried working out in a gym 30 years ago and I stopped because I didn't like it and I haven't done anything since then. This year I will be turning 50 and I noticed that my body was changing in ways I did not like. I knew that just diet alone was not going to get me into the shape that I wanted. The best decision I made was to join Get In Shape For Women. In just 12 weeks I reached my goal. I lost 14 pounds and a total of 9 inches. Through the efforts and expertise of Mike, Gina and Jessica I was able to get into the shape and weight that I was when I was 22! They taught me how to eat properly 6 times a day and guided and encouraged me through the weight training and cardio. The concept and the program have done exactly what it said, to get me in shape. Now I can happily turn 50 looking fit and fabulous!

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: Which five players made up the original class of the National Baseball Hall of Fame?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•JUSTIN HAYES, 6. OF READING, has been named a Hero of the 21st annual Boston Marathon* Jimmy Fund Walk.

As a Walk Hero, Justin will inspire more than 8,000 participants to walk up to 26.2 miles along the historic route of the Boston Marathon* and raise money for cancer care and research through Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and its Jimmy Fund. This year, the Walk aims to raise more than $6 million. Since its 1989 inception, over $60 million has been raised for cancer care and treatment at Dana-Farber through the Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk.

Justin was diagnosed with Acute Lymphoblastic Lymphoma and is being treated at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute's pediatric oncology center, the Jimmy Fund Clinic.

The Walk Hero Program matches Jimmy Fund Clinic patients with teams who walk in their honor. It offers an inspiring opportunity for walkers to connect with children who are being treated for cancer at the Jimmy Fund Clinic. For the children, being a designated Walk Hero is an exciting experience that distracts them from their treatments while introducing them to new friends who will be among their biggest cheerleaders. The Walk Heroes become a part of a large group of people committed to fighting the disease for which they are being treated. Walkers offer companionship and support to the children and their families.

On September 13, photographs of the Walk Heroes will line the Walk route, inspiring and motivating the Walkers. Many Heroes and their families will also be along the route to cheer on their teams.

"Walk Heroes inspire and motivate our walkers," says Ann Beach, Boston Marathon

Jimmy Fund Walk Director. "They enable the walkers to make a personal connection with the many miles they're logging and dollars they're raising."

The Jimmy Fund supports the fight against adult and pediatric cancer at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, a world-renowned pioneer in discovering and developing innovative, more effective cancer therapies. The Jimmy Fund's supporters enable Dana-Farber's physicians and researchers to do the work necessary to raise the chances of survival for cancer patients around the world. Progress is continually being made thanks to research funding raised by the Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk.

To register or make financial contributions for the 21st annual Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk, visit www.jimmyfundwalk.org or call (866) JF-1-WALK.

•BROTHERS BRUCE AND GREGG JOHNSON, LIFE-LONG READING RESIDENTS AND OWNERS OF LEE KIMBALL OF WINCHESTER, have announced the 9th annual David K. Johnson (DKJ) Foundation golf tournament. The tournament will be held on Monday, Aug. 31, 2009 at The Georgetown Club's 18-hole, championship course in Georgetown.

The foundation was created in honor and memory of their parents, David and Susan Johnson, to promote awareness and support for individuals and families affected by Alzheimer's disease and other progressive dementia and recognition of the need for alternative non-institutional care and family-needed support.

David Johnson was diagnosed with progressive dementia at the age of 59. Several years ago he lived at Peter Sanborn Place and was the conduit to the services that they offer today.

Proceeds will support the Massachusetts Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association, the David & Susan Memorial Scholarship Fund awarded to a Reading Memorial High School student pursuing a career in health care or medicine, and Reading's Sanborn Home Care, a non-profit home health care agency. Anyone interested in learning more about these charities, visit www.dkjfoundation.org.

Previous year proceeds have helped Sanborn Home Care provide specialized training for their staff; their Urgent Respite Care Program for caregivers; and helped cover the operational cost, i.e., insurance, gas and ride subsidies for their 14 passenger, wheel chair accessible van that Reading Rotary pledged the purchase of.

This year's proceeds will go towards Sanborn's expansion capital fund as they fulfill their dream of expanding Peter Sanborn Place. The plan is to add an additional 52 mixed income units, a redesign, along with a major addition to the community space. They will have on site a wellness center, additional meeting space, media room, a salon, activity/recreational space, commercial kitchen, expanded dining, along with a Sanborn Pub.

The DKJ Foundation wants to help individuals in the community and the foundation needs your help. There are many ways to support the annual golf tournament. Please consider golfing, sponsoring a hole, attending the reception, donating to the raffle or to the golfer's good bags.

•Five members of the Wheaton College women's swimming & diving team earned Scholar All-America honors from the College Swimming Coaches Association of America (CSCAA) in recognition of their academic and athletic success during the 2008-09 season, while the squad qualified for Scholar-Athlete Team laurels.

Rising juniors SAMANTHA FARRELL (READING, MA/READING MEMORIAL), Stephany Perkins (Monmouth, ME/Monmouth Academy) and Dania Piscetta (Belmont, NH/Belmont) were named Scholar All-Americans, as each met the award's criteria of qualifying for the NCAA Championship while recording a minimum cumulative 3.50 grade-point average. Only two Division III schools from New England boasted more than Wheaton's three honorees.

•Freshmen catcher T.J. Larivee (Salem, MA) and pitcher Garrett Cole (Manchester, NH) look to form a dynamic partnership as they highlight UMass Lowell's highly sought after 2009-2010 incoming class announced by head coach Ken Harrington.

In addition to Larivee and Cole, five other freshmen will join the rising River Hawk Baseball program for the 2010 season.

UMass Lowell rode an infusion of young talent last season to a 25-20 record (15-15 in the Northeast-10 Conference, sixth), which included a dominating 12-3 campaign at home.

The River Hawks are expected to return 31 veterans for next year. Among those returning, UMass Lowell welcomes back seven starting positional players and 13 pitchers (four starters, nine relievers).

"This is an extremely talented class that addresses the needs of the program," said Harrington, who joined the River Hawks in 2004 following four seasons at Saint Anselm. "They address our catching, middle infield, power on offense—and you always want pitching. They all have a chance to start their legacy this fall and we are anxious to see what they bring to this program."

Among the newcomers is

Boston Globe and Boston Herald All-State selector MONTE MARROCCO JR. (WINCHESTER). He will be joined Nick Bonifiglio (Worcester, MA) out of Holy Name H.S.

A middle infielder Marrocco, earned Middlesex League MVP honors in addition to his All-League and Eastern Mass. All-Star achievements. Marrocco also captain the Bridgeton Academy football team, earning defensive player of the year honors.

League From S-1

and ages in the league. The Red Storm's starting pitcher, Justin Donovan, played sparingly at Woburn High, but on this night he's battling the potent Black Sox lineup and faring pretty well.

What Donovan, a slender lefty, lacks in comparison to Doble's velocity, he makes up for with a nasty curveball and guts. Of the five runs he allows in five innings, only two are earned.

"I only played in four games my senior year," said Donovan, who graduated from WMHS in 1996. "When (Wells) started the league, it was perfect for me. I live right over there (pointing across Main Street), so the games are close."

Lynnfield resident Jerry Guerra played in the over-30 Metrowest MSBL for 13 years before trying out for the MNBL this season. At 48-years-old, Guerra is the oldest player in the Black Sox' lineup and one of the oldest players in the league. Despite being twice the age of some of his teammates, Guerra can still play. He was tested early and made a fine running catch down the right field line to record the first out of the game against the Red Storm.

"This league is perfect for me," said Guerra, who played collegiately "a little bit" at the University of Rhode Island. "The games are on week-nights instead of Sundays, and the field is right down the highway. It's good baseball and I got drafted on a team with a great group of guys."

Family considerations also play a role. Ardito says this year will be his last in the league, since he has five young children, including a set of 6-year-old triplets, with whom he'd like to spend more time.

"This league works out well because it's from July to September, but as my kids get older, they're the ones who are starting to get more involved in sports," said Ardito, who now lives in Wilmington.

Managers like Ardito get their league fees waived in exchange for their organizational duties.

"The managers are really the ones who are the backbone of the league," said Wells. "Going on eight years, I think we've only have two forfeits, which is great."

Wells doesn't see the MNBL expanding much further, though this year 89 applications were submitted for 34 open spots. In a league with more than 10 teams, games would have to be scheduled on Friday nights and weekends, which Wells has tried to avoid.

"Guys like the fact that it's a Monday through Thursday league," said Wells. "Weekends are for time with families. And there's an issue with field availability. That's why we start so late in the year, to avoid conflicts with Babe Ruth and (Woburn's Intercity League team) Mooney Dental."

The Woburn-based MNBL is flourishing, thanks to the dedication of folks like Joe Wells, the managers and players.

Back to School!!

Don't let busy schedules compromise healthy lunches

It's the time of year again when the kids get ready to head back to school and the slow-going, lazy days of summer come to an end. Families often fall into a pattern of slowdown during the school break, and it can often take some time to get used to the school morning rush once more.

During time-crunched mornings, brown bag lunches sent with children to school may not be packed as diligently and with the healthy foods we should contain. To ensure lunches don't pay the price of busy schedules, consider these tips.

- * When doing the weekly or monthly shopping at the grocery store, make a list of nutritious and quickly-prepared lunch foods. Also, think about what dinner foods can be transformed into lunch the next day as leftovers (chicken cutlets can be cut up to top fresh salads). Packaged kids' lunches from the refrigerated section of the grocery store certainly are convenient, but we may be packing more sodium and calories than a child needs. Instead, stock up on crackers, sandwich rolls, low-calorie, low-sodium lunch meats, pre-cooked low-fat chicken nuggets, and even yogurts for fast and nutritious lunch options.

- * Variety is the spice of life, and no child wants to go to school with the same old peanut butter and jelly sandwich every day. Find out the child's favorite foods and always keep the pantry stocked with some of these items. Send him or her to school with interesting things, such as a pita bread shell, tomato sauce and shredded cheese for a fast and nutritious pizza. Fruit threaded on a skewer mixed with cheese makes healthy kabobs for students who don't have access to a microwave or other way to heat lunches. Keep a pitcher of homemade smoothies in the refrigerator so your son or daughter can take a filling shake to school for lunch. Smoothies can be as easy as blending together a banana, a couple of scoops of low-fat vanilla yogurt, frozen berries from the freezer section, and a cup of fruit juice.

- * Take advantage of school lunches once in a while. Many school districts have revamped their lunch menus in recent years, offering more and more healthy options for students. For example, in the past year Medford public schools outside Strategies help...

Homework help for children with learning disabilities

Each student learns differently from the next. Some may not grasp concepts as easily as their classmates, or we may have different interpretations of material. This does not mean that we do not have the intelligence to succeed in school. Typically those classified as having a learning disability have an average or above intelligence but experience difficulty in processing information. Sometimes, however, learning disabilities go undetected and students suffer.

Learning disabilities are something for which parents, teachers and students must develop strategies. With plans of action, learning disabled (LD) students can go on to engage in successful school careers - including college or other secondary educations. However, without some special help, the results may be less optimistic. Consider the following statistics.

The National Institutes of Health say that 75 to 80 percent of special education students identified as LD have their basic deficits in language and reading. Thirty-five percent of students identified with learning disabilities drop out of high school. This is twice the rate of their non-disabled peers. A National Longitudinal Transition Study indicated that 62 percent of learning disabled students are typically unemployed one year after graduation.

Working with LD students should begin early in a school career as a collaborative effort between teachers and caregivers. One area in which parents can do much good is with homework help. The National Association of Special Education Teachers (NASSET) offers these guidelines for working with LD students on homework.

- * Set up a homework schedule: Some children may need a little guidance deciding on when is the best time to engage in homework. If the task seems too overwhelming, it may simply be pushed aside. Keep to the schedule as closely as possible.

- * Rank order assignments:

Help children decide what assignments should be tackled first. Subjects for which there is more difficulty may be scheduled first because they will take the longest to get through.

- * Leave children alone to complete their homework: Sitting next to your child may create learned helplessness because the same "assistance" is not imitated in the classroom. Parents serve their children better by acting as a resource person to whom the child may come with a problem.

- * Check correct problems first: When your child brings you a paper to check, mention to him/her how well he/she did on the correct problems, spelling words, etc. For the ones that are incorrect say, "I Stall tactics...

Students avoiding school bathrooms may pay a price

Returning to school means many adjustments for students and parents. There are new teachers, new schedules and new rules. Kids who have grown accustomed to a laid-back summertime routine may find there are many changes in store for them come the new school year—including changes to their body and bathroom habits.

Students have the propensity to avoid school bathroom stalls for a variety of reasons. Kids can get nervous about taking too many bathroom breaks. It's a situation where making friends and learning a new structure trumps the body's needs, and school rules and activities do little to allow kids the freedom to go. Some find school bathrooms are just not private or clean enough. With other people around and a limited amount of time until the next class or activity, kids simply won't go. The end result can be pesky constipation.

Bathroom No-Go

Many children choose to "hold it in" rather than use school bathrooms, according to research. Pedia-Lax, the most complete line of laxatives made just for kids, partnered with Weekly Reader to conduct a survey about school bathroom habits of boys and girls ages 6 to 11. In the survey, nearly two-thirds (64.6 percent) said that they rarely or never "go number two" in school bathrooms. In fact, nearly 40 percent always or often choose to withhold bowel movements rather than go at school.

Why does it matter when kids go? Well, when kids can't or won't use the bathroom, the colon absorbs water from the stool, making it hard and dry. Intercepting this bad habit of withholding is important because continuing to resist the urge to go can cause the brain to begin to ignore the urge as well. This avoidance of going to the bathroom is one of the most common causes of constipation in children over 18 months of age—and it's a situation that typically worsens with changes to a routine such as back-to-school.

Solving Digestive Slowdown

Unfortunately, while children may not worry about their bathroom habits, you do. What can you do about it? In the end, it's really up to them, so be supportive and make it a problem you can talk about. Tell your child to ask to be excused while the class is working silently, to help him or her find a few private minutes to go.

If your child does start to

CHANGES TO CHILDREN'S SCHEDULES, eating habits and school pressure can lead to constipation.

show signs of constipation, you can take proactive steps to provide relief. Remember to increase fiber in your child's diet through healthy foods, regular meal schedules and supplementation. New Pedia-Lax Fiber Gummies are a daily fiber supplement that provide 4.5 grams of fiber with the daily recommended serving of three gummies. Just three great-tasting, sugar-free gummies give children a boost of 4.5 grams of fiber. Encourage him or her to also drink plenty of water, and if necessary, use a product like Pedia-Lax which offers a variety of kid-friendly laxatives for quick, overnight or gradual relief. For more tips, visit www.Pedia-Lax.com.

Now that you've done your homework, you and your family are ready for a healthy school year.

Far less money spent on children who are home schooled

According to the National Home Education Research Institute, far less money is spent on children who are home schooled than those attending public schools.

According to the Institute's figures, the average amount spent on home schooling per pupil in the United States is $450. Compare that figure to those of public schools and it's hard to believe. Consider the state of New Jersey.

During the 2006-07 school year, New Jersey spent an average of $16,085 per student according to the National Center for Education Statistics. That figure is nearly 36 times higher than the money purportedly spent on home schooled pupils.

Even California, a state with a much bigger population than New Jersey and nearly

of Boston, MA hired a systemwide chef as part of its initiative toward healthier lunches. New recipes have been introduced, the staff has been trained in nutritional cooking, and processed foods have been removed. When time is especially of the essence, send your child to school with a few dollars for cafeteria lunch. Even if you don't regularly partake in school lunches in your household, it pays to have the lunch menu posted for the days when cafeteria food is your saving grace. Chances are there will be something on the menu that appeals to your grade schooler or even middle schooler. French bread pizza day is always a favorite.

* Introduce diverse foods. Chef Ann Cooper doesn't think the learning process should stop in the cafeteria. "Teach kids about diverse foods by encouraging them to understand and ask questions about what they are eating. Introduce kids to seasonal, regional foods so they will understand that different foods grow at different times of the year," she says. You may find that other cultures rely on foods that make convenient lunchtime offerings. For example, bagel chips or pita wedges dipped in hummus can be nutritious and a fast lunch for families on the go.

* Involve the kids with lunch preparation. There's no reason why an older, capable child can't be put in charge of his or her lunch—freeing up Mom or Dad's time for other morning tasks. Have a talk about what foods you'd like to see eaten at lunch, and then leave it up to your child to take on the task of lunch preparation.

Help from S-5

bet if you go back and check these over you may get a different answer."

* Don't let homework linger all night: When an acceptable amount of time has passed, and if homework assignments aren't complete, simply write a letter to your child's teacher of the circumstances. Letting homework drag on will only reinforce a LD child's feelings of inadequacy.

* Discuss homework problems before your child reads a chapter or a part of coursework: This way he or she knows what to expect and look for.

* Check problems in small batches: A LD child may benefit from immediate gratification, which can be achieved by checking homework in short intervals. Additionally, if the child is doing the assignment incorrectly, the error can be detected and explained, preventing your child from doing the entire assignment incorrectly.

* Consider placing textbook chapters on tape: Research indicates that the more sensory input children receive, the greater the chance the information will be retained. For instance, parents can place science or social studies chapters on tape so that the child can listen while reading along.

NASET also says that parents should always be aware of symptoms indicating the possibility of more serious learning problems, which may turn up when students tackle homework. Such symptoms may include constant avoidance of homework, forgetting to bring home assignments, taking hours to do homework, procrastination of class work, low frustration tolerance, labored writing, poor spelling, etc. Consult with the teacher or a psychologist to come up with new strategies.

five times as many students as the Garden State, spent just under $9,000 per pupil during the 2006-07 school year.

Though the home schooling estimates appear remarkably low, that could be due to the average household income of home school families, which the Institute reports is less than $25,000 for 18 percent of such families, and between $25,000 and $49,000 for 44 percent of home school households.

Back to School!

Music in our schools

Most adults can harken back to the days when they picked up their first instrument or learned their first melody. For many, these initial forays into musical education occurred at school. The instrument may have been the recorder and the tune "Hot Cross Buns," but the first seeds of music appreciation were planted.

Music is all around us. Millions of people tune in to see their favorite "American Idol" advance to the next round. Scores line up for tickets to see area concerts. Many make a pilgrimage to New York City's Broadway to take in a show. Despite how music can bring joy and pleasure, and reportedly improve performance in school, budget cuts in many schools are resulting in certain classes being removed from the curriculum — and music education lessons are often the first to go. But is music worth saving? Many people think so.

"A young person who studies music reinforces teamwork, communication skills, self-discipline, and creativity — all qualities kids need to be successful in their other schoolwork," says Peter Nero, a Grammy Award-winning pianist, conductor and creative musical director in the public service announcement, "Why Music?" Teamwork is learned through participating in ensemble programs, such as chorus or band. Self-discipline is gained by practicing an instrument or fine tuning a voice. And music is a creative medium, offering chances for self-expression.

Music also creates an appreciation for other art forms, say proponents. An artist is an artist, whether he or she is using a paintbrush, an instrument, or a voice to create the masterpiece. In today's increasingly technological society, some think it pays to sit back and enjoy art forms as a means of becoming a more well-rounded individual.

Does Music Makes Kids Smarter?

Up until recently, the benefits of music were backed up merely on personal beliefs about the advantages of a musical education. But today there are a number of studies that put some proof behind the theory that music is a boon to students.

A few years ago, Rhode Island researchers studied eight public school first grade classes. Half of the classes became a "test arts" group, receiving ongoing music and visual arts training. In kindergarten, this group had lagged behind the others in scholastic performance. After seven months, all the students were given a standardized test. The "test arts" group had caught up to their fellow students in reading and surpassed their classmates in math by 22 percent. In the second year of the project, the arts students widened this margin even further.

The benefits of music aren't only for young students, either. The College

Entrance Examination Board reports, "Students of the arts continue to outperform their non-arts peers on the SAT. In 2000, SAT takers with coursework/experience in music performance scored 57 points higher on the verbal portion of the test and 41 points higher on the math portion than students with no coursework/experience in the arts."

Lewis Thomas, a biologist and physician, studied the undergraduate majors of students currently enrolled in medical school. He found that those who were undergraduate music majors were more likely to be admitted to medical school. Sixty-six percent of the music majors were, in fact, admitted. By comparison, 44 percent of biochemistry majors were admitted.

There is also evidence that music education improves students' mood and behavior. According to a study conducted at the University of Texas, college-aged music students have fewer problems with alcohol, are emotionally healthier, and concentrate better than their non-musical counterparts.

Parents, students and administrators should get together to decide whether musical education is of importance in their schools and then take action.

Dance Track celebrates 25 years of dance

Dance Track of Wakefield will celebrate its 25th Anniversary this year. To commemorate this special time the Dance Track faculty is inviting all alumni to dance in this year's Spring concert!

Those who are interested should contact the Studio at dancetrackstudio@aol.com

Founded by Marlene Russell in 1985, and keeping it in the family and continuing the studio in 1994 when Mrs. Russell's Daughter Kelly Kerr had taken the reins of the studio.

Kelly continues today with the same philosophy that has always stood the test of time "Quality dance training in a friendly, relaxed atmosphere where learning is a fun experience."

Throughout the 25 years they have watched many students grow up in the studio and become not only great dancers, but confident, well rounded adults. We are like a big family at the studio and many of the students have made life long friends here.

The dancers have performed at Walt Disney World, Opened for the Boston Celtics, and have experienced dancing with a Radio City Rockette in New York. The students especially love performing for our own Community at The Sunrise Center, Melrose Victorian Day Fair, and Wakefield's Common Ground Outing and more.

Dance Track offers classes in dance education for all ages and levels. Our most important class we offer is our Preschool Program. It is where students take their first steps in dance.

Kelly Kerr Dance Tracks director says "I am so blessed to have so many wonderful students and families dancing at the studio".

They look forward to Celebrating 25 wonderful years of quality dance education! To join them for an exciting year of dance or for more information on how to register for the Fall you can visit the the website at dancetrackstudio.com

Back to School!

Go green when going back to school

Across the country, kids are gearing up for their annual return to the classroom. With back to school about to hit full swing once again, parents and kids alike are hard at work compiling their lists of school supplies so we can be ready to go for that first day of class.

Though it can be hard for parents to get kids excited about going back to school, doing so can set a very positive tone for the coming school year. In addition, back to school can be a great chance for parents to educate their children about the environment and how even the little things, such as buying environmentally-friendly school supplies, can really add up to make a positive impact.

* Avoid disposable products: One of the most effective ways to make a positive impact on the environment is to purchase reusable products. The average American produces 1,000 pounds of trash per year. Environmentalists note that this waste can be reduced by as much as one-third if people simply begin buying reusable products - and it can start with school supplies.

Pentel Recycology writing instruments, including pens, pencils, markers, and highlighters, are refillable, greatly reducing their impact on the nation's landfills. This can be a big help, especially when considering the fact that Americans buy more than 6 billion pens and pencils per year, the vast majority of which are disposable.

"Buying eco-friendly writing instruments like those in our Recycology line is a small but powerful way to help the environment," comments Marty Furman of Pentel of America. "Even school age children can grasp the concept that by refilling and reusing a pencil we are saving money and throwing one less thing into the trash."

Most people are not aware of the environmental benefits of mechanical pencils compared to wood pencils. Only a portion of the wood pencil is actually used. Some of the pencil is lost due to sharpening, the end of the pencil is thrown away as it is too small to write with, which leaves only a portion that is used. On the other hand, 100 percent of the lead in a mechanical pencil is used.

* Buy recycled paper products: Another way to instill a sense of environmental awareness in children this back to school season is to buy recycled paper products. Recycled paper products help save wood, water and energy, while reducing pollution and solid waste. Conservatree, a San Francisco-based nonprofit organization, notes that calendars, notebooks, folders, and other common school supplies are available with recycled content. This makes the back to school shopping season a perfect time to teach kids about the environment and how to make a positive impact.

* Buy products made from recycled plastic: Paper isn't the only culprit when it comes to potentially wasteful products. Non-recycled plastics, in fact, can be very detrimental to the environment. For example, at their 2008 annual Coastal Cleanup Day, a host of volunteers collected more than 80,000 pounds of trash from the beaches of Southern California, much of which was identified as

ECO-FRIENDLY WRITING INSTRUMENTS can help kids finish their homework while learning valuable lessons about the environment.

A new recipe...

Get your taste buds dancing with tantalizing salsa

Not only are avocados essential for guacamole, they are blazing new trails as a key ingredient in fresh salsas. Avocados add luxurious texture and lively color to salsa and transform otherwise ordinary celebrations into fiestas. Avocado salsas complement grilled meats, add spice to tacos and tostadas and are especially enjoyed as a zesty dip.

If ever there were ambassadors for Mexican cuisine, celebrity chefs Mary Sue Milliken and Susan Feniger would certainly be nominated. Known as the Border Grill Girls, they have been presenting the bold foods and flavors of Mexican food for over 19 years, with gourmet panache. Chefs, restaurateurs, cookbook authors, radio and TV personalities, Mary Sue and Susan know how to throw a fiesta with salsa and California avocados.

"Avocado salsa is by far one of our most popular items," says Susan. "It's not surprising that avocados are perceived as party food - our customers light up when they are on the menu."

Salsa is the standard for fiestas on so many levels. It can mean both spicy food and sultry music. Salsa, the food, is fresh, takes minutes to prepare and makes a Latin party authentic - all qualities that can also be used to describe California avocados. Salsa, the music, is an energetic mixture of Latin and Caribbean beats - also words to describe the origin of the spicy dip.

The chefs' first rule in making salsas is that everything must be fresh. Strong, simple flavors and the freshest ingredients make for authentic salsa. Most traditionally start with a tomato base and end with any one of a variety of chiles for spice. Everything in between can range from citrus fruits, sweet berries, roasted vegetables and especially avocados.

"We prefer the Hass avocado variety from California," explains Mary Sue. "It has a richer, nuttier flavor that helps smooth out the chile heat in salsa."

Chefs Mary Sue and Susan have developed a collection of avocado salsa recipes adapted from their menus and five cookbooks. Create new salsa tastes that will dance deliciously in your mouth.

California Avocado Corn Salsa

Yields 6 Servings

Corn kernels are lightly cooked just to develop their flavor and then mixed with chunks of smoky roasted chiles, luxurious avocado and crunchy sharp scallions. This mild salsa is an ideal finishing touch to dress-up grilled meats such as marinated skirt steak or chicken breasts.

3/4 cup olive oil

4 cups fresh corn kernels (about 5 ears)

1 tsp. salt

3/4 tsp. freshly ground black pepper

2 California avocados, peeled and seeded

1 large red bell pepper, cored and seeded

4 poblano chiles, roasted, peeled and seeded

4 scallions, white and light green parts, thinly sliced on the diagonal

1/2 cup red wine

Heat 1/2 cup of olive oil in a large skillet over medium heat. Sauté corn with salt and pepper, about 5 minutes. Transfer to a large mixing bowl and set aside to cool.

Cut avocados, bell pepper and roasted poblanos into 1/4-inch dices. Add to corn along with scallions, red wine vinegar and remaining 1/4 cup olive oil. Mix well and let sit 20 to 30 minutes to blend the flavors.

Tangerine-Splashed Avocado-Pico de Gallo

Spanish for "rooster's beak," pico de gallo is a salsa made of finely chopped ingredients. This refreshing and fruity citrus salsa is perfect for dipping or to add a tropical flavor to fish.

2 ripe California avocados, peeled, seeded, diced

2 medium tomatoes, diced small

1/2 cup white onion, chopped

3 fresh tangerines, peeled and seeded (remove white pith as much as possible), diced

1 fresh Serrano chile, seeded and minced

1/2 cup fresh tangerine juice

1/2 bunch fresh cilantro, chopped salt & pepper, to taste

Gently stir all ingredients in mixing bowl to combine, transfer to serving bowl if desired. Serve with tortilla chips and as condiment for Steak Fajitas.

Back to School!!

Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, MySpace ... What?

Savvy ways to save on school supplies

With school rapidly approaching once again, the annual trek to the store to get school supplies is about to return as well. Whereas shopping for school supplies was once limited largely to finding pens, pencils and notebooks, today's parents are finding that school supplies are becoming more expensive, and that a wider array of items are requested each and every year.

That said, shopping for school supplies doesn't have to be so overwhelming, no matter how long your child's list is.

Buy generic when possible. Generic supplies are typically less expensive and will help ensure that you won't have to purchase all new supplies the next time the latest blockbuster movie comes out. Functionality over fancy is a good rule of thumb to follow.

The early bird gets the worm. Avoid shopping for school supplies at the last minute. Starting early allows you to shop the sales and keep an eye out for bargains. And don't limit yourself to one store. Check out office supply centers, warehouse clubs, department stores, and pharmacies to find the sales that are easiest on your budget.

Buy in bulk. Buy in bulk can save you significant amounts of money, particularly for parents of more than one student. This is ideal for supplies that are used more than others, such as pens and pencils, paper, and paper clips. Set up a storage cabinet or supply cabinet in your home, like a business office would have, that can house the supplies. Send kids to school with only a few items at a time so they're not lost or traded.

Shop best price for the value. Supplies need to handle the wear and tear of an entire school year, so cheaper items that won't make it through the year could cost more in the long run. Spend more time and money when shopping for electronics such as scientific calculators.

Work with teachers at your child's school. See if your child's school can implement a policy to send home school supply lists at the end of the school year so parents can get a head start on purchases over the summer. Some tech-savvy teachers have their own Web pages where they list supplies, reading lists and homework assignments.

Shopping for school supplies has grown more complicated over the years, as what a child needs to succeed in the classroom has continued to evolve.

Surviving senior year harder than it sounds

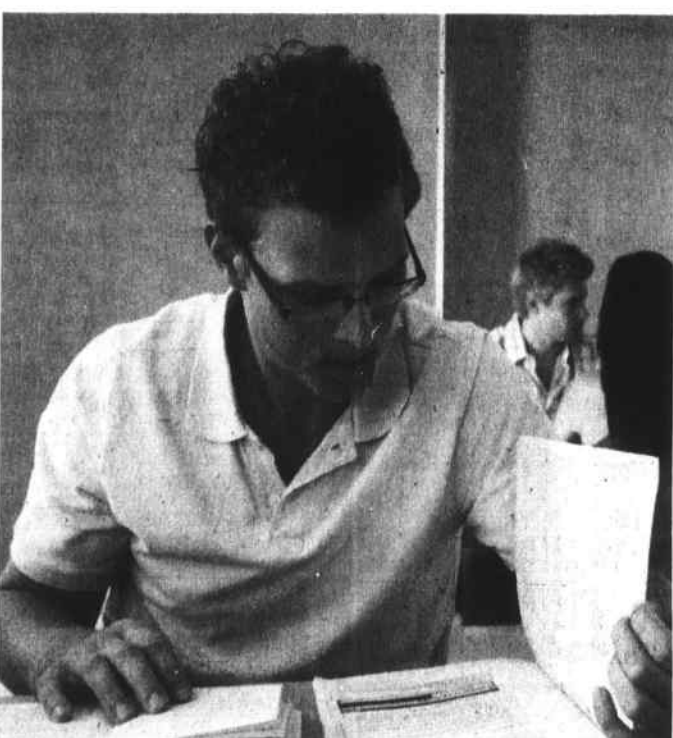

By the time many high schoolers reach senior year, few things can faze them. After three years of moving up the totem pole, high school seniors often feel as if there's nothing high school can throw at them which they can't handle and that they're on top of the world.

As many seniors find out, however, the last year of high school can be as hard or harder than the years that came before it and now is not the time to take a laid-back approach to schoolwork. Consider the following tips.

- Don't procrastinate: Plenty of high school grads have put off their responsibilities until it's almost too late and have then spent the last month or so of high school scrambling to catch up. Be sure to get college applications done in the first semester, and don't put yourself in a position where you have to work extra hard at the end of the school year to pass all of your classes.

- Stay motivated: While it's common for high school seniors to take a more lax approach to their studies during that final year, it's also short-sighted. Students who worked hard for the first three years of high school should use that hard work as motivation to maintain their solid GPAs through the end of high school. Colleges with extra scholarship money might re-examine aide applications after you've enrolled, so maintaining good academic standing during senior year can earn applicants more money.

- Avoid burnout: While procrastinating and losing motivation are common pitfalls for high school seniors, burnout is as well. Many seniors find themselves overwhelmed when applying to and visiting colleges, keeping up with their studies, working a part-time job, and participating in extracurricular activities. Be sure to go out and have fun with friends as well. Senior year of high school should be an enjoyable time, too.

- Ask for help: Senior year of high school, particularly when applying to colleges, can be overwhelming at times. The good news is that many have been there before you. If you're struggling with yet

Find your way through the financial aid process

As scores of high school seniors across the country ready themselves for their final year of high school, many of those students and their parents are getting acquainted with the financial aid process. With college on the horizon and the economy in flux, more and more families are expected to seek financial aid to help finance their kids' college educations.

Even for parents who have done it before, the financial aid process can be confusing. For parents of high schoolers about to begin their secondary school swan song, consider the following tips to successfully navigate your way through the financial aid process.

- Don't stall or procrastinate: Financial aid partially works on a first-come, first-serve basis, so it's best to apply as soon as you can (January 1st). You can estimate income or simply look at your final W-2 for the year to answer questions regarding yearly earnings and finances.

- Begin with the FAFSA: The Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) should be the first form you complete, even if you're aware you don't qualify. Other types of financial aid, such as state grants and loans, typically require that you fill out the FAFSA, so this should be done first and as soon as possible.

- Go for the gold: Students should apply for all types of available aid, be it a loan from Uncle Sam or individual grants and scholarships. Each school has a number of unique scholarships and grants, and parents and students will never know about them unless they ask. It's typically free to apply, so it can't hurt to apply for anything and everything.

- Seek help and advice: Particularly for parents going through it for the first time, the college and financial aid application process can be overwhelming and even intimidating at times. High schools have counselors who have been through the process numerous times and who are more than glad to help. If your child has a particular school in mind, don't be afraid to contact that school's financial aid office and ask for help as well. That's why such offices exist.

Did you know... Students not immune to debt problems

With the country battling its way through an historic economic downturn, it's worth noting that the country's students are not immune to the debt that has plagued both individuals and businesses alike.

In fact, according to the Project on Student Debt, nearly two-thirds of students at four-year colleges and universities had student loan debt in 2004. That's a significant increase from 1993, when less than 50 percent of four-year graduates had student loans. What's more, a 2006 report from the College Board titled "Trends in Student Aid" found that better than 60 percent of graduates from public universities had student loans, dispelling the rumor that students who attend public universities, which generally offer lower tuition to in-state residents than their private counterparts, do not need to take out loans to afford higher education.

Public university graduates also saw the size of their debts grow between 1993 and 2004, as the average debt level increased from just over $8,000 in 1993 to more than $17,000 by 2004. Accounting for inflation, that's an increase of 65 percent. Overall, 25 percent of graduating borrowers in 2004 carried more than $25,000 in debt.

another college essay, ask an older brother or sister or a teacher for help. Help is even provided by schools in the way of guidance counselors, who are there to help navigate you through the process as smoothly as possible.
